

FARM LEADERS TO PUSH FIGHT FOR NEW LAWS

Battle Over Legislation To Aid Agriculture Likely To Kill Tax Reduction Plan.

M'NARY TO PUSH SIMPLIFIED BILL

South Expected To Join West in Fight for Congress Aid—Capper Outlines Program.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

United News Staff Correspondent. Washington, November 22.—Farm bloc leaders of house and senate are beginning their campaign for passage of the McNary-Haugen bill at the coming session of congress, predicting success because of a strengthened alliance between west and south, are pointing to a conflict they see in their program and tax relief which further endangers tax reduction.

Outside of actual hostility to tax reduction at the coming short session among some farm bloc members, there is the actual physical problem raised by their renewed campaign for an agricultural measure. If a lengthy fight should develop around farm relief, as seems likely, that would block action on tax reduction unless the tax credit proposal were jammed through speedily.

In view of the fight democrats are threatening for a general reduction, which is favored by some republicans, speedy action on the administration tax credit proposal appears impossible.

Opposes Tax Refund.

Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, leader of the house farm bloc, opposed the tax refund scheme in a statement today, declaring that the administration is proposing by it to return money to large corporations which have profited while consenting only to lend money to farmers and thereby put them deeper in debt and increase their losses.

Dickinson said significantly at the end of his statement attacking the tax credit proposal: "No wonder the farm organization in their St. Louis meeting recently have unanimously approved the legislative program of Frank O. Lowden and at the Orange meeting in Portland, Maine, his name was on the lips of the real farmers in attendance and many of them saw in him the real Moses of the morning."

Capper's Position.

Senator Capper, Kansas republican, leader of the senate farm bloc, did not mention the tax proposal in a lengthy statement he made on farm relief, but said that though he had given it no serious consideration he was inclined to believe it better to apply the surplus to the public debt.

Capper said he believed "the agricultural forces of the west and south will be stronger than ever for the McNary-Haugen bill or some similar plan to enable farmers to control and manage excess supplies of crops at their own expense so as to secure cost of production with a reasonable profit."

"I expect the present congress to give real attention to this situation," he said. "Besides a farm relief bill, as outlined, Capper has four other points in a permanent farm relief program, not all of which he expects to get consideration at the coming short session. These are:

- 1.—Reduction of agricultural freight rates.
- 2.—Development of inland waterways to lower freight costs.
- 3.—Increase in certain tariff schedules, including those on wheat and canned beef and pork which are coming in from South America, and retention of present sugar schedules.
- 4.—Reduction of acreage to prevent large surpluses.

Capper said that canned beef from South America is being sold in the middle west, "right in the year when many cattle producers have suffered heavy losses." Frozen pork tender-

As Son Waits Death In Electric Chair, Gore's Father Dies

Condemned Youth To Retain Permission To Attend Funeral—Motion for New Trial Filed.

COURT WILL PASS UPON PLEA TODAY

Newly-Discovered Evidence of Insanity Claimed by Attorneys; Governor Leaves City.

While final efforts to save Moll Gore from the electric chair were made Monday in the filing of an extraordinary motion for new trial on the grounds of newly-discovered evidence, news was brought to the condemned man in his cell in Fulton tower that his father, J. B. Gore, 57, of Villa Rica, is dead.

Friends of the Gore family appealed to Sheriff James I. Lowry late Monday afternoon to allow the condemned youth—sentenced to be executed Friday—to attend the funeral of his father, under guard. The request was refused. Sheriff Lowry stating that Governor Clifford Walker was the only person who could grant such a request. Governor Walker left Atlanta Monday morning for a week's fishing trip in Florida.

Just prior to his departure, the governor declared that he did not intend to extend clemency to Gore, but friends and attorneys still cling to the hope that the extraordinary motion for new trial will be officially recognized by Judge John D. Humphries in Fulton superior court this morning and that he execution will be stayed.

The condemned youth's father died at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon after a lingering illness, which has threatened to claim his life hourly for the past several days.

Funeral services for Mr. Gore will be held this morning at 11 o'clock from the County Line Baptist church.

DIXIE MOTORCADE REACHES FLORIDA

500 Persons in 150 Cars Celebrate Completion of Hard Surface Pavement Waycross to Jacksonville

Jacksonville, Fla., November 22.—(Special.)—The transformation of a once almost impassable sandy trail into a highway of high type macadam and clay gravel construction, and the completion of the paving of the Waycross-Jacksonville segment of the Central Dixie highway 82 miles were fittingly celebrated Monday by a motorday of nearly 1500 gaily decorated automobiles, containing approximately 500 jubilant Georgia boosters, including Fitzgerald's 52-piece community band, which invaded Florida soil and took Jacksonville by storm.

Practically every city and town along the route from Macon to Jacksonville were represented in the procession, which reached the Florida metropolis late in the afternoon.

Dinner Is Served.

A mammoth fish dinner, served the visitors by the people of Folkston, conceals by the Fitzgerald band en route and upon arrival in Jacksonville and greetings extended by school children who lined the streets in every town along the route, were outstanding incidents in the progress of the

Billion-Dollar Dinner Party Given Queen

Tuxedo, N. Y., November 22. Surrounded by the archdukes of American finance, Queen Marie of Rumania sat down Monday night to what was probably this country's first billion-dollar dinner party.

There have been business banquets at which the personal wealth of the guests ran into many millions, but rarely before had so many multi-millionaires gathered under the same roof for a strictly social and private affair.

Not a guest at this party, save the queen and her children, was worth a penny less than $10,000,000, and there were so few of the "little fellows" possessing this sum that they seemed to be of no relative importance. Even the butlers appeared to be concerned at their presence far down at the end of the dining room.

Witnesses Offer Testimony To Disprove Charges Willie Stevens Was in Plainfield.

BLUEFISH PLAYS IMPORTANT ROLE

Friends and Acquaintances of Henry Stevens Tell of His Actions on Murder Night.

Someville, N. J., November 22.—(AP)—Bringing twenty-one witnesses from varied walks of life, the defense in the Hall-Mills case completed its support of the alibi of Henry Stevens and turned today to the case of Willie Stevens. The brothers, with their sister, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, are charged with the murder of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, slain with the Rev. Edward W. Hall, on the night of September 14, 1922.

This date came up again and again in today's testimony as eight witnesses told of seeing Henry Stevens in Plainfield, N. J., his home, that night. Alibi Strengthened.

After a morning devoted to the story of a regular fisherman and his wife, an occasional fisherman, and the Stevens cook, a family was put forward in the afternoon to close the Henry Stevens alibi. A mother and daughter told of a conversation with the defendant at 10:30 o'clock the night of the double killing, another daughter heard Stevens' voice but did not see him, and the father told of meeting the family at Jersey City on September 15, the day after the conversation, when all three testified Stevens took them to the station.

The state has fixed the hour of the slaying at 10:30 o'clock. Dismissing the status of Henry Stevens for the moment, the defense took up his brother's case and offered witnesses to prove that he has not suffered from epilepsy, did not wear a derby hat, constantly used eye-glasses and did not have a gold watch. State witnesses insisted that the testimony had testified that they saw Willie Stevens at Plainfield, N. J., inquiring the way to the Parker "house," which prosecutor of this county, they had said he wore a derby hat, no eye-glasses, had gold watch and was suffering from epilepsy.

Attack Dickman's Testimony. Late in the day a movement was started designed to impeach the testimony of Henry L. Dickman, former state trooper, who testified that he was paid by the late Asaph Beck, an Ohio prosecutor, to attempt to leave the state after he had spent several months in investigating the Hall-Mills case.

In the afternoon the office of the adjutant general of the army came with records of Dickman's army service and that of "Bernard J. McLoughlin," which prosecutor of this county, they had said he wore a derby hat, no eye-glasses, had gold watch and was suffering from epilepsy.

A fingerprint expert from the navy followed the army man to testify that

FALL-DOHENY CASE JURORS ARE LOCKED UP BY JUDGE; WILL BE KEPT UNDER GUARD

TO RENEW EFFORT TO ENACT ZONING LAW FOR ATLANTA

New Decision By U. S. Supreme Court Revives Interest in Plan for Atlanta.

OLD ATLANTA LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

But Councilman Horace Russell, Author, Says New Decision Removes Obstacle From Success.

Revival of the Atlanta zoning law is expected following a decision handed down Monday in Washington, on a similar case, according to Councilman Horace Russell, author of the former Atlanta law.

The Atlanta zoning law was held unconstitutional in that it violated the Georgia laws and also was in violation of the United States federal law but, since a similar case was upheld in the decision Monday, Mr. Russell stated that one of the obstacles is now removed.

According to Mr. Russell, an amendment will have to be made in the charter of the city of Atlanta, by the Georgia legislature, giving the city power and authority to create such a law.

The Atlanta law is very similar to that of Euclid, Ohio, which case was argued in the supreme court of the United States and which was upheld in a decision Monday, it was stated.

ZONE LAW UPHOLD BY SUPREME COURT

Washington, November 22.—The supreme court upheld legality of zoning laws in cities today by a 6-3 decision.

It warned, however, that although the ordinance in Euclid, Ohio, which was at stake in the case, was reasonable in its provisions, that certain other restrictions in special cases might infringe individual rights.

The police power given zoning by the constitution justifies states, including limitation of building height and character of buildings and industry in certain localities, the court held.

The Euclid case is the first to be argued in the supreme court. Others are pending. Many state supreme courts, including those of Kansas and Wisconsin, have upheld the zoning principle, but others have held that it is a confiscation of property.

Bathing Suit Censure Laid To Jealousy

Mrs. Milton Says You Can't Save Lives in Evening Gown.

Washington, November 22.—The bathing suit she wore in the photograph which aroused the ire of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was "old-fashioned" compared to those that women wear on the beach now, according to Mrs. Samuel Burleigh Milton, head of the local chapter of the organization.

The action of the convention at Richmond last week in voting censure of her picture in a Richmond newspaper was due to jealousy and her achievements as a swimmer, from some of those present, Mrs. Milton thinks. She has won numerous medals for saving lives.

She announced after the action of the convention that she would sue for libel, and she said today that she intends to push the suit.

Death of Mrs. Oelrichs :: MRS. BELMONT SOLE SURVIVOR OF GROUP ::

Recalls Social Ruler Trio

New York, November 22.—(AP)—The death of Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs at her home in Newport, R. I., today recalls the time when Mrs. Oelrichs, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish and Mrs. O. H. Belmont were absolute leaders of New York and Newport society. Mrs. Belmont is the sole survivor of the group.

The trio gained supremacy in what was called "The Four Hundred" when Mrs. William Astor withdrew on account of ill health. "The Four Hundred" was controlled by the late Ward McAllister and Mrs. Astor. Mrs. Oelrichs, Mrs. Fish and Mrs. Belmont with one another for Mrs. Astor's position, but eventually formed the triumvirate which for years dictated who was who and what was what in New York and Newport society.

In the heyday of Mrs. Oelrichs' social prestige there was much strife to gain the favor of her group, and a great flutter among newcomers when they were recognized and invited to the Oelrichs, the Fish or the Belmont home.

Mrs. Oelrichs was the daughter of James Graham Fair, who came to this country from Ireland and amassed a fortune of some $500,000 in the early mining days of the far west. She had two brothers and a sister. One brother, Charles, was killed in a motor accident in France in 1902. Her sister is Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., formerly Virginia Fair.

Theresa Alice Fair and Hermann Oelrichs were married in 1890. He was the son of a German immigrant who became a wealthy merchant of Baltimore. He was known here as a sportsman and athlete not greatly interested in society. Hermann Oelrichs died in 1906, while returning from Europe. The probate of his will caused some stir when it was discovered that he left no portion of his estate to his wife or their son and only child, Hermann, Jr. Mrs. Oelrichs contested the will and an out-of-court settlement gave her son a share.

Mrs. Oelrichs' New York home was the white marble mansion at No. 1 East Fifty-seventh street, where she lived until 1918.

MELLON DEMANDS NATION PROCURE WHISKY AT ONCE

Medicinal Liquor Supply Must Be Replenished Now To Avoid Shortage While Aging, He Says.

Washington, November 22.—(AP)—Immediate steps must be taken to replenish the medicinal liquor stock, Secretary Mellon warned today. He also advocated that it be manufactured in this country under the law outlined by Assistant Secretary Andrews, chief.

Taking issue with the view of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, that there was no necessity for worry over the medicinal supply for several years, Mr. Mellon emphasized that it would require five years to age properly a new supply. He estimated there was no more than a five-year supply on hand.

Likewise, Mr. Mellon has no sympathy for the proposals to import whisky from abroad to meet domestic requirements. He believes it will be easier to assure a pure supply of liquor and to prevent diversions if the whisky is manufactured here rather than imported.

While the financing details of General Andrews plan to organize a private corporation under federal supervision to manufacture medicinal liquor and take over all existing supplies remain undetermined, Mr. Mellon hopes this problem can be put into effect without government assistance. He is prepared, however, to seek temporary financial aid from the government, if it is necessary.

Bond Permit Asked.

Washington, November 22.—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad asked the interstate commerce commission today for permission to replace an outstanding issue of 7 per cent notes with an issue of $15,156,000 bonds.

Prohibition Liquor Better Than None, Thinks Cadett

Editor's Note.—Thomas Cadett, of The London Times, is the holder of the Walter Page newspaper fellowship, spending a year in America under the terms of the fellowship. He has temporarily joined the staff of The Constitution. In the following article he gives his impressions of Atlanta's police court. Mr. Cadett has served on the staffs of The San Francisco Chronicle and The Chicago Daily News. The Constitution was selected, without his knowledge, as the representative southern newspaper.

Police courts have a certain fundamental similarity the whole world over; that is to say, they offer to the observer a valuable index to native manners and customs. The dramatic appeal of important crime is lacking, but all the illuminating little details of everyday life brought out in the field of petty misdemeanor play a definite part in the study of social conditions.

Hence my visit to the Atlanta police court yesterday. Business opened with an informality that later I observed to be the keynote of the whole procedure.

Before any trial was begun, a few matters were cleared up between the judge and various officials. It was explained, for example, that one prisoner would not be present owing to an excessive consumption of veronal tablets, which had induced so great a mental and physical aver-

COURT MANDATE ISSUED TO BLOCK ANY TAMPERING

Bitter Fight of Counsel in Elk Hills Oil Case Follows Demand of Attorneys for U. S.

JURORS DISCLOSE RELATIVES QUIZZED

Defense Holds Segregation of Panel Under Lock and Key To Be In-sult to Profession.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, November 22.—Because of alleged efforts to tamper with prospective jurors, the jury in the Fall-Doheny case was ordered kept locked up together and under guard at all times when not in the courtroom.

This decision was rendered by Justice Adolph A. Hoehling after a bitter fight between the government counsel, who proposed the segregation of the jury, and the Fall-Doheny lawyers, who denounced the motion as an "insult" to the professional honor.

Justice Hoehling insisted that he meant no reflection upon anyone in ordering the jury locked up. He said that this seemed advisable in view of disclosures during the quizzing of jurors that relatives of some had been approached by mysterious questioners.

These alleged efforts to ascertain the religious and political views of prospective jurors figured constantly during the selection of the jury, several talesmen revealing that neighbors or members of their families had been questioned.

"What did they ask you?" Frank J. Hogan, counsel for Doheny, asked one. "Just about the same questions you are asking me," the prospective juror replied. Hogan had just inquired of him whether he would be influenced by the fact that one defendant was a Protestant and the other a Catholic, one a republican and the other a democrat, and whether he had read or heard of a novel called "Reverly" which purported to blemish the memory of President Harding and some of his cabinet.

The first day of the trial was occupied entirely with the selection of the jury except for the clash at the end of the day over isolating the jurors.

Jurors Chosen.

The jurors who will decide this momentous case are Herbert Via, 41; cigar clerk; Henry D. Byers, 27; express driver; William B. Farmer, 26; electrician; George B. Cobb, 29; railway clerk; Christian Vogel, 40; restaurant steward; Alphonso E. Parker, 41, newsstand employee; Henry J. Plenty of Time Remaining For Elephant Game Entries

EVERYONE URGED TO QUALIFY SOLUTION

"Home wasn't built in a day," but that doesn't signify that The Constitution's great elephant puzzle can't be solved in a few short hours and the solver win a big cash prize for Christmas.

This is the last week of the elephant game, but right now your chances are just as good as those of the first person to enter the contest. Why not map into it right now and get in line for a big cash award?

All that's involved is a simple process of addition. Turn to the display advertisement appearing in this issue, which bears the picture of the elephant and gives full and complete details of the interesting and instructive game. Then start adding the figures that compose the elephant. There's plenty of time to check your solution, submit it and qualify it.

To all is sounded a warning not to fail to send in their answers and receive the capital prize of $2,000.

that they are properly qualified to receive the biggest of all the 30 prizes offered—the $2,000 capital award. Delay may prove fatal; so don't take chances, but as soon as you are satisfied as to the correctness of your solution, submit and qualify it promptly. The contest comes to an official close next Saturday night.

The size of the prize you win will depend upon the closeness of your figures to the correct weight of the elephant. A three months' subscription to The Daily and Sunday Constitution, $2.50, with the winning answer, will only pay you $200. A six months' subscription, $5, sent in with the winning solution, will pay $500. A 12 months' subscription, $9.50, will pay $1,000, and a 12 months' subscription, $9.50, together with two new six months' subscriptions at $5 each, total $19.50, will make you eligible to receive the capital prize of $2,000.

PREMIERS APPROVE AUTONOMY PROGRAM

London, November 22.—(AP)—The somewhat independent policy followed by Canada and Ireland in the matter of appointing representatives at Washington coupled with the demand of General Hertzog, premier of South Africa, for independent national status for his country, has had the effect of forcing the imperial conference to a clearer definition of the precise relations between the component parts of the great empire. The fact that all the premiers concerned in the conference have since expressed their full approval of what was done is a measure of the importance of the results accomplished.

The autonomous equality of all the British dominions, including the Irish Free State, but excluding India and the crown colonies, has been compared to that of the League of Nations, except that each nation in this case has the same sovereign.

Tuttle Vows To Wage War On Moonshine

Charlotte, N. C., November 22.—(AP)—Run runners and moonshiners will be the chief targets for the operations of 95 prohibition agents in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida after December 1, Robert E. Tuttle, of New York, said here today.

Mr. Tuttle will take the post of prohibition administrator for the new ninth district, composed of the three states.

Tuttle was here today to confer with Bea C. Sharpe, deputy administrator for North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, and to take over records for the latter two states which will be shipped to Savannah. He and Mrs. Tuttle came here yesterday by automobile from Roanoke, Virginia.

Tuttle declined to say whether or not deputy administrators at Greenville and Charleston, S. C., and Atlanta, who have been working under Mr. Sharpe, would be retained. "I am unable to say, not having had a conference with the personnel of the district," he said.

Among other cases administered by Judge J. Wilson Parker, who presided in place of Judge Walter Dwyer, were the following: Robert Brown, of Decatur, charged with carrying liquor, $50 or six months; John Harper, carrying a pistol without license, $40 or six months; Robert Decker, reckless driving, $15 or one month; Hiram Johnson, selling liquor, 30 days in jail, $100, or six months, and Ernest

USE BATHHOUSES FOR WINTER PLAY, WALLIS SUGGESTS

Recommendation that all municipally-owned bathhouses to be constructed in the future be so built that they may be readily converted into gymnasiums for playground children during the winter months was included in the annual report to be filed with council by L. L. Wallis, general manager of parks and playgrounds, he stated Monday.

"If this is done, bathhouses, which now lie idle during the winter season because it is too cold to swim, can be converted into basketball courts and used for other indoor sports," Mr. Wallis said. "I shall also favor conversion of those we now have into indoor gymnasiums during the winter season."

"At the present time the city owns five bathhouses. These would form a good nucleus for establishment and prosecution of a winter play program. It would cost only approximately $1,000 more to construct a fair-sized gymnasium in the locker rooms and in the winter these could be cleared and used by playground children. The only difference would be the heightening of the ceiling of the locker rooms, the erection of goals and the marking of the courts."

The body of G. W. Curtis, 29, resident of Ivy Inn, who with Amos Hansard, 25, of 275 Clarke street, was killed when the automobile in which they were riding turned over on the Buford-Cumming road Sunday, will be taken at 6:50 o'clock this morning to Venore, Tenn., for interment.

Mr. Curtis is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Curtis; five sisters, Mrs. A. M. Lanning, Mrs. J. E. Derrong, Mrs. H. B. Burton, Miss Annabel Curtis and Mrs. Jim Farmer, and four brothers, R. E. J. R. Morris and Wayne Curtis, all of Venore. Harry G. Poole in charge.

The body of Mr. Hansard was taken to a Cumming undertaking establishment. Two men, said to be with Mr. Curtis and Mr. Hansard at the time of the crash, were Jesse Samples, 22, and Dewey Samples, 25, of 210 Woodward avenue. Jesse Samples suffered a fractured jaw and broken arm, while Dewey Samples escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

ACCOUNTANCY EXPERT HERE FOR LECTURES

Charles Heinrichs Langer, a member of the nationally known accounting firm of Walton, Joplin, Langer and company, will give a series of lectures before Atlanta students of accounting. It was announced Monday afternoon.

Mr. Langer will arrive in Atlanta Wednesday and will appear at Commercial High school at 7 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. He will speak at the School of Commerce at 2:30 o'clock and at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce building at 7 o'clock. He will speak at the Georgia Tech evening school of commerce Wednesday. His subject at the chamber of commerce meeting will be "Opportunities in the Accountancy Profession."

Fred J. Paxon, Atlanta business man, will speak on "The Value of Accountants to a Business Man" at the Wednesday night meeting.

Mr. Langer will remain in Atlanta over Thanksgiving as the guest of W. Wilkes, district representative, of the Walton School of Commerce. Mr. Langer plans to attend the convention of the Southeastern Commercial Teachers' association Friday and Saturday in Asheville, N. C., where he will be one of the principal speakers.

OCEAN BORNE TRADE OF U. S. INCREASES

Washington, November 22.—(AP)—Ocean-borne commerce from United States ports totaled 298,000,000 long tons in 1925, an increase of 14 per cent over the previous year, the bureau of research of the shipping board announced today.

San Francisco, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Boston, Norfolk, New Orleans, Baltimore, Port Arthur, Seattle, Newport News and Houston handled 70 per cent of the total.

MRS. A. B. CONNOLLY DIED HERE MONDAY

Mrs. A. B. Connolly, 65, of 290 East Hunter street, widow of the late A. B. Connolly, chief of the Atlanta police department for more than 18 years, died Monday at a private hospital, following an extended illness.

A native of Savannah, Ga., Mrs. Connolly moved to Atlanta many years ago and has taken an active part in woman's affairs of the city during her residence here. She was one of the most active members of the Church of the Immaculate Conception and held executive offices in the benevolent society and the Altar society of the church. Her death will be mourned by a large circle of friends, both in Atlanta and in Savannah, where she spent her childhood.

Funeral services for Mrs. Connolly will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, from the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The Rev. Father Emmett Walsh will officiate and interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mrs. Connolly is survived by four brothers, James F. Butler, of Los Angeles, Calif.; John G. and Harry G. Butler, both of Savannah, Ga., and E. G. Butler, of Tampa, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. James A. Terrell, of Charlotte, N. C., and Mrs. M. B. Tugwood, of Quaqueba, Ecuador, South America; a niece, Mrs. Peter Nugent, of Savannah, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Ellen Ryan. Greenberg & Bond Co. in charge.

SHRINE CEREMONIAL PLANS COMPLETED

Yaarab Temple will be host today and tonight to a large number of out-of-town nobles who will attend the home-coming ceremonial session to be held at the auditorium tonight.

Home-coming nobles will register at shrine headquarters, Spring and Harris streets, between 12:30 and 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, after which they will ride around the city and visit points of interest in street railway busses under escort of members of the divan of the temple.

At 5 o'clock the guests will be given a dinner at the Ansley hotel with members of the divan, and members of the class which will later the hot sands. A parade will form at shrine headquarters ready to move at 7 o'clock, and will march directly to the auditorium, where a buffet luncheon will be served for the Atlanta nobility.

The ceremonial will begin promptly at 8 o'clock with the entrance of Potentate Tom C. Law and the divan under escort of all of the uniformed organizations. Features of the ceremonial will be a concert by Yaarab Temple band, a drill by the patrol and songs by the chanters.

Ex-Sheriff Dies

Bishopville, S. C., November 22.—(AP)—J. Manley Smith, 67, first sheriff of Lee county, died here yesterday. His widow and 12 children survive.

ALIBIS OFFERED
FOR TWO BROTHERS

The fingerprint expert's brief appearance was the forerunner of more extended testimony tomorrow when he will be called as one of the defense experts in his efforts to combat persistent state contention that the print of Willie Stevens' finger appears on a calling card of the Rev. Mr. Hall, found near his body.

Prepared supper for Stevens. Lafayette, where the bloodstain was kept in the court picture for several hours. After Mrs. Anna Evanson, who cooks for the Stevens family, but carefully explained that she works by the hour, had testified with a broad Scandinavian dialect of preparing supper for Henry Stevens on the night of the slaying, and of seeing him the following day, Mrs. Mazie Applegate came to the stand. She grew angry at Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson under his cross-examination and testified at times with fire in her eyes. Mrs. Applegate is the wife of Arthur Applegate, who caught a six-pound bluefish, which according to the diary of Henry Stevens he weighed on the night of September 14. Mrs. Applegate said she saw the weighing and with her husband left Stevens on the beach "after 10 o'clock."

Arthur Applegate followed his wife and confirmed the catch and agreed with his wife that Stevens was there when they left the fishing scene for home. The special prosecutor subjected Applegate to one of the most searching cross-examinations of the trial, but the fisherman, who is a carpenter by trade, insisted that he has the date fixed in his mind. Statements attributed to the witness in previous appearances were quoted by Simpson, but Applegate insisted that his story today was the correct version.

Saw Henry Stevens. Howard Price, who described himself as only an occasional fisherman, said he saw Henry Stevens at 9:50 o'clock in front of his house.

The Wilson family gave testimony regarded as among the most favorable developed by the defense. Mrs. Sarah Wilson and daughter, Elaine, told of a conversation with Henry Stevens on the porch of their home about 10:30 o'clock on the night of September 14, while another daughter, Alice, heard Stevens' voice from her room upstairs but did not see him.

CONDITION OF "BIG WOMAN" CALLED "VERY SERIOUS." (AP)—The condition of Mrs. Jane Gibson, picturesquely witness in the Hall-Mills case, was "very serious," according to unofficial reports tonight from Jersey City hospital. Attaches said her fever was very high and that she was "quite weak."

What bearing her ordeal in court Thursday may have had on her relapse, authorities would not say.

Kentucky Man Beats Groom, Kidnaps Bride

Louisville, November 22.—(AP)—Charged with assaulting the bridegroom and kidnapping the bride, Sam McKee, 21, was taken into custody here tonight by police.

The assault and kidnapping is alleged to have taken place this morning following the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pullman, at Jeffersonville, Ind., yesterday.

Pullman told police he was in bed this morning when McKee walked in the back door and attacked him, forcibly carrying off the bride, an 18-year-old girl, Fern Creek.

Police found Mrs. Pullman at McKee's home and said that she did "not appear to be under compulsion." Police further stated that she returned to her husband tonight.

REV. MR. WILKIE COLLINS
GETS FAREWELL GIFTS

The Rev. L. Wilkie Collins, pastor of the St. Paul Methodist church, was presented with a purse of gold and a silver loving cup, Monday night at a farewell reception at the church in his honor. He will soon leave the St. Paul church, which he has served for the past two years, for Augusta, Ga., where he has been transferred as pastor of the St. James church.

The special services Monday night were in charge of W. H. Butler, lay leader in the St. Paul church. Reports from practically every branch of the church were read during the service, and a number of letters of commendation and improvement in every instance, it was stated.

Rev. Collins, in his response, spoke of the loyalty and the many improvements in the church and said it was only with their help and support that he was able to carry on his work as easily as it has been done. He voiced regret that he has to leave the Atlanta church.

ATLANTAN TO LIGHT AND PAVE BELGRADE

(Copyright, 1926, for The Constitution.) Belgrade, November 22.—(Special.)—Belgrade streets will be transformed from their present state of impassability to a modern lighted city street system, with boulevards and a transit system, by the capital of Yugoslavia, it is reported.

Charles B. McDaniel, of Atlanta, Ga., has practically landed the contract for the undertaking. Mr. McDaniel has just completed a million-dollar municipal plan for the city of Oskaje and a big municipal celebration is being planned.

The Charles B. McDaniel referred to above is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Charles B. McDaniel, of Atlanta. Mr. McDaniel was graduated in the Atlanta public schools and at Georgia Tech, where he graduated in civil engineering. Since the war he has made a remarkable success in Europe and has handled many important contracts there.

Senator Frazier
To Ask No Favor
Of G.O.P. Camp

Washington, November 22.—(AP)—Pre-congress feelers to determine whether Senator Frazier, republican, North Dakota, should be brought back into the republicans fold after a term of non-recognition for alleged insubordination, provoked further comment today at the capitol.

A surprise, in the form of a statement by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, father of the resolution expelling the North Dakotan from republican party councils, that he would welcome the senator back to regular ranks if the latter requested, was followed with a statement by Frazier himself that he would not ask to be taken back.

"If Senator Frazier asks to be classified hereafter as a republican," said Senator Reed, "I see no reason why his request should not be granted."

"I've made no move toward going back," the North Dakotan said later. "It's the republicans who are in the first place and if it's anyone's move, it's theirs."

Peaches' Alimony
Pending Suit Set
At $300 Monthly

White Plains, N. Y., November 22.—"Peaches" Heeman Browning didn't get the $4,000 monthly alimony for which she asked in connection with "Daddy" Browning's separation suit, but must console herself with a mere $300 a week.

Judge Joseph Morschauser also saved the girl's request for $25,000 counsel fees to $8,500.

The wealthy realtor's suit for separation from his child-wife has been consolidated with her counter-bill so that the actions will be tried together next month. "Peaches" is to receive $300 a week until the case is settled one way or the other.

Warden Killed
To Save Leopold,
Convicts Testify

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.) Joliet, Ill., November 22.—"Nathan Leopold wanted to escape and we were going to take him out of the penitentiary with us. In trying to get him out we had to kill Warden Klein. We figured Leopold's millionaire father would furnish us with money after we got out and we planned to take Babe with us to Mexico."

That, in substance, was the story told today by six convicts who did escape from the Stateville penitentiary last May, after killing Deputy Warden Peter N. Klein. They told this story to their attorney, who had refused to testify in the trial of the six convicts before Judge Fred A. Hill.

The said they had arranged all details of the escape and that it was unnecessary to their own escape to visit the solitary confinement building in which Leopold was a temporary prisoner and in which Klein's office was located. The one and only purpose of going there was to free Leopold, they said.

2 FULTON CONVICTS
DASH FROM CAMP

Homer Bird and Walter Fisher, serving terms in the North Side Fulton county convict camp, escaped shortly after 2 o'clock Monday afternoon after prying a hole in the roof of one of the buildings at the camp. The escape is the second within the past few days, four convicts escaping from Bellwood camp last week.

Guards and county police and county bloodhounds were placed on the trail, but at a late hour Monday night the duo had not been captured.

Bird was serving a sentence of 12 months on a charge of violating the prohibition law and speeding, and Fisher was serving a term for automobile theft. Both were convicted in Fulton superior court.

Philadelphia
Pets Voted,
Norris Told

Washington, November 22.—(AP)—Charges that dogs and cats have "voted" at each election during the past 10 years in Philadelphia were made in a letter by George H. Fetzer, a storekeeper of that city, received today by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska.

The letter was a copy of one Fetzer had sent J. E. Cornell, of Indiana, Pa., defending Norris' action in campaigning in the Keystone state against William S. Vare, whose stronghold is in Philadelphia.

"If you lived in this city and knew of the crooked, false and dishonest elections, voting and counting, I hardly think you would want to criticize any man for trying to expose it," said Fetzer, who described himself as a republican.

"In one particular division they had 380 registered voters," he added. "It was checked up and found that 255 of these were fakes—men and women who had never lived there, some dead for 10 years, and several being the names of cats and dogs."

Before leaving to file a speaking engagement at Carlisle, Pa., tonight, Norris said he would consider possible action on the letter upon his return.

BATHING SUIT FIGHT
LAID TO JEALOUSY

The dignity of the Daughters of the Confederacy to have my picture in the paper in a bathing suit," she said.

"I don't see what higher ideals one can have than to save human lives. You can't save lives, you know, in a street dress or an evening gown. You have to wear a bathing suit, and the picture, thinking it would be appropriate, I was in a regulation suit."

"A lady in Richmond asked me for a sketch of my career, and I sent her the picture, thinking it would be appropriate, I was in a regulation suit."

JACKSON'S GRANDDAUGHTER
DEPLORES U. D. C. ACTION.

Charlotte, N. C., November 22.—(AP)—Heroism should be recognized whether it shows itself in a swimming suit, or in a dress or in a uniform, Mrs. E. R. Preston, granddaughter of General Stonewall Jackson and wife of a Charlotte attorney, declared here today.

The action of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in censuring Mrs. Samuel Burleigh Milton, of Washington, D. C., for allowing a picture of herself in a swimming suit to appear in The Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The action was taken by the organization at Richmond Saturday during its annual meeting.

After reviewing the action of the U. D. C., Mrs. Preston, who is a member of the U. D. C., said:

Has Saved Lives.

"Would it not be more fitting for the U. D. C. instead of censuring, to recognize a woman who has saved lives?" she asked.

"I agree with the Daughters as to the lack of taste in Mrs. Milton's publishing her picture in a bathing suit, but is it not after all a matter of taste rather than of morals, and is not the U. D. C. taking the matter a bit too seriously?"

"As one who loves the southern traditions, but as one who tries to look through the eyes of her five children toward the rising of the glorious sun in the south, I feel that we should cast aside prudery and as an organization recognize heroism whether it shows itself in swimming suit, nurse's dress or tattered uniform."

WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

To cut short a cold or cough due to a cold and prevent complications, nothing gives such quick and delightful relief as ASPIRONAL, a delightful elixir, medicated with the latest scientific remedies to relieve the nose and throat; banishes the excessive flow of mucus; banishes the dull, frontal headache and that chilly, creepy, aching feeling that attends a cold.

Aspirinal is a "complete" cold remedy in itself, including agents that almost instantly begin to relieve the distressing symptoms and later remove the cause by acting gently and most delightfully on the liver and bowels. Aspirinal is perfectly safe for children as well as adults. Quickest and best relief for catarrhal croup and children's "choking-up" with phlegm at night. Only fifty cents for a family bottle. Clip this guarantee offer and take it to your druggist today.—(adv.)

there was nothing so good for congestion and colds as mustard. But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered.

Musteroke gives the relief and help that mustard plaster gave, without the blistering, without the burning, without the pain. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Gently rub it in. See how quickly the pain disappears. Try Musteroke for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

Atlanta's Own Takes Up
Winter Training Program

Winter training took on new life at the auditorium-armory Monday night when the 122nd-infantry, Atlanta's own national guard regiment, entered upon the new program.

The officers' meeting was brief, much shorter than the usual 15 minutes, and officers went back to their companies with the news that the commanding officer wanted action and plenty of it in this winter's work.

Whenever the weather will permit, Colonel Charles H. Cox told officers, men will be taken into the streets about the armory where the work can be given more thoroughly. In extreme cold and rainy weather the main auditorium and company rooms will suffice for a drill field.

WINSTON TO QUIT
POST IN TREASURY

Washington, November 22.—Retirement of Garret B. Winston, undersecretary of the treasury, which is slated to occur sometime in the next few months, will open the way for appointment of a republican defeated in the recent primaries and elections.

Representative Ogden Mills, of New York, who was defeated for Governor by Al Smith, is mentioned most prominently as Winston's successor. Others who might be considered are Senators Lenroot of Wisconsin and Pennington of Pennsylvania, but these probably would be more likely choices for diplomatic posts.

Mills has been prominently identified with tax and financial legislation in congress and has led the fight on the house floor for the tax programs of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Winston, in admitting today that he intended to retire from his post second in rank to Mellon, declined to state when this would take place. He has been in the treasury for three years and a half.

REHEARING ASKED

Springfield, Ill., November 22.—(AP)—Disatisfied with the state supreme court's decision a month ago upholding the right of the Cook county court to admit to probate a will submitted by William D. Shedd as having been made by his foster son, the late William H. McClintock, "Millionaire Orphan," attorneys for Miss Isabelle Pope, McClintock's fiancée, and other relatives filed a petition today for a rehearing.

The informality, by comparison with British procedure, was striking enough, but it was obviously adequate. Indeed, set and rigid formulae could only have produced infinite confusion in such a place with such people. So the judge sat, genial and tolerant where necessary, unshaken by the maze of whole-hearted lying and irrelevant garrulity, dispensing justice. And this is what courts, after all, are for.

CLEAR SKIN

DOES YOUR MIRROR reveal a soft, clear, ruddy skin, free from imperfections, that is such a joy to every woman? Or are you embarrassed with blemishes, pimples, little eruptions, acne, blackheads and other unsightly and disfiguring handicaps?

Your skin is in reality your passport, and if your mirror reveals a blemished, unsightly complexion, it is time to begin at once to correct this annoying condition. When the blood becomes infected with humors or impurities, the circulation cannot supply rich nutrition to the skin, but instead it deposits the acid impurities with which it is contaminated into the sensitive fibres and tissues. This causes irritation or inflammation which splits or breaks the outer cuticle, while the tissues beneath ulcerate, become inflamed, break out into pimples, and cause other unsightly irritations.

Just as Long as the Blood Remains Pure, the Skin Will Be Free From Eruptions

But when the blood becomes infected with humors, its nourishing and healthful properties are lost, and its humor-laden condition causes inflammation of the delicate tissue and fibres of the pores and glands. You have but to realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of all skin disorders is in the blood. Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and therefore cannot be reached by treatment that is strictly local, but is deep down in the blood supply.

S.S.S. Has a Proved Record of Over 100 Years as the World's Best Blood Medicine

Because S.S.S. cures build red-blood-cells, it clears the system and makes those so-called skin disorders impossible to exist. S.S.S. contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. It is also a remarkable builder of firm flesh which is also important to beauty. It will fill out your hollow cheeks, put the "rub" in health in your cheeks and the sparkle in your eyes. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been beautifying complexions and giving women physical charm. That is why S.S.S. is accepted as the greatest of all blood cleansers and body builders. S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores. The larger size bottle is more economical. Start taking S.S.S. today. Its marvelous results will amaze you!—(adv.)

What a pity if you still think of Pierce-Arrow ownership as the privilege of the wealthy few only.

The Pierce-Arrow built six-cylinder, 70-horsepower engine of this Series 80 chassis gets 24 to 27 miles per gallon out of gasoline. 25,000 to 28,000 miles per tire is usual. Mechanical attention, rarely needed, costs little due to national Pierce-Arrow Flat Rate Service. Balloon tires, Pierce-Arrow four-wheel safety brakes and Houdaille shock absorbers are standard equipment.

Match what Buick gives Against any other car

When it comes to value for the dollar, Buick welcomes comparisons with any car on earth.

Study the Buick features on this page—here are exhibits of extra value—illustrations of the better way in which Buick builds.

Volume permits Buick cars to be built the way all motor car engineers would like to build theirs—to the highest ideals of quality—not to meet a price.

Compare what Buick offers with any other car; see for yourself why the Greatest Buick Ever Built is the greatest motor car value ever offered.

The Greatest Buick Ever Built

Vacuum Cleaned Crankcase

The Buick Vacuum Ventilator pulls noxious engine fumes out of the crankcase, keeps disagreeable odors out of the car, prevents oil dilution. Only Buick has the Vacuum Ventilator!

Sealed Chassis

Buick is the only car with the Sealed Chassis. This feature protects your investment and cuts operating costs by sealing every operating part inside a dirt-tight, water-tight housing.

Triple-Sealed Engine

Buick halts dirt wherever it could enter the engine. An air cleaner, an oil filter, and a gasoline filter prevent excessive engine wear and save repair bills.

Balanced Wheels

In Buick wheels, the weight of the valve stem is balanced by a counterweight. The result is smoother wheel action—amazing road adhesiveness. Eventually, on all cars—on Buick now!

High-Speed Starting Motor

Instead of the usual starting motor, Buick provides a more powerful one—a faster one. This is another reason why Buicks start so easily. another instance of Buick's better way!

Thermostatic Circulation Control

It warms the Buick engine, from zero to 120°, in less than three minutes. Smooth operation, without waiting for it, in any season. Another instance of Buick's better way.

The Torque-Tube Drive

The better way to transmit the drive of the wheels to the chassis is through a torque tube. The most expensive car built in America uses this drive, and so does Buick.

An Engine Vibrationless Beyond Belief

The 1927 Buick moves without a trace of effort. The engine is vibrationless beyond belief, at every speed. Money can buy no finer performance than this—no matter how much you are willing to spend.

5-Bearing-Surface Steering Gear

Buick's 5-bearing-surface steering gear is the most expensive type used on any motor car. And no car built handles more easily than Buick. Try it and see!

Jet-Black Tires and Jet-Black Rims

One of the smartest undercarriage innovations of the year is Buick's jet-black tires on jet-black rims. They please the eye and add distinction to your car's appearance.

Only 4 Oil Changes a Year

The Buick Oil Filter cleans the oil of dirt. The Vacuum Ventilator prevents dilution. That means only 4 oil changes a year instead of 15 or 20. Buick's better way saves your money.

Automatic Heat Control

Automatic Heat Control is an integral part of the Buick carburetor. It helps to make the Buick engine indifferent to climatic and altitude changes. It aids Buick's easy starting.

4000 Authorized Service Stations

Experienced owners choose the car with better service facilities. And Buick has 4000 highly efficient Authorized Service Stations all over America. You are near one, wherever you drive.

Mechanical 4-Wheel-Brakes

Buick pioneered 4-wheel-brakes and selected the mechanical type for better operation and extra safety. There is no liquid in Buick brakes, no rubber hose. Operating parts are drop-forged steel!

Controllable-Beam Headlights

Buick Controllable-Beam Headlights, with thumb control on the steering wheel, add pleasure and safety to driving after dark. Bright lights constantly, without annoyance to other cars. Buick's better way.

Automatic Lubrication

At points where lubrication is sometimes neglected, such as fan hub and universal joint, Buick provides automatic lubrication. And the Buick engine is full-pressure lubricated on every bearing surface.

Wheelbase

There are three Buick wheelbase sizes, 114½ inches, 120 inches and 128 inches. Buick cars are longer and more commodious than other cars which sell for more. Buick volume makes this possible.

Fisher Bodies with VV Windshield

Buick's princely closed bodies are by Fisher. All have the patented VV Windshield, which raises and lowers like a window. All are finished in Coronation Duco Colors, the year's smartest custom effects.

One-Piece, I-Beam Front Axle

Buick uses a one-piece I-beam drop-forged front axle. Buick's better way insures satisfaction.

Cantilever Rear Springs

Use of the Torque Tube instead of the springs to transmit the drive of the rear wheels permits Buick to use Cantilever Rear Springs. These better springs are found also on America's most expensive car.

South Georgia Methodists Hear Appointments Read As Americus Meet Closes

Prohibition Enforcement Better Today Than Ever Social Service Report Says.

Americus, Ga., November 22.—(AP) Reading of the pastor's appointments for the year brought to a close here Monday one of the most successful sessions in the history of the South Georgia Methodist conference. The conference was characterized throughout by a spirit of harmony, and the reports of the pastors and presiding elders showed the past year to have been one of progress in the church work.

Prohibition enforcement is better today than ever, said the report of the committee on social service adopted today by the conference. This was declared to be responsible to a large extent "for the splendid financial condition of the United States, and an added membership in the church and Sunday school."

The report asserted that the next congress would be drier than any previous one and that repeal of the Volstead act is an "impossibility."

Bishop W. B. Beauchamp's recapitulation of the south Georgia conference today showed 238 preachers, and presiding elders with 112,200 members, a slight increase in both. The conference has 630 Sunday schools, with 6,000 teachers and 100,000 students, which is 9,000 students less than last year.

"Why this decrease?" asked the bishop.

"Gone to Florida," an elder replied. "Because of the size of the conference, making it impossible for small towns to entertain its more than

How to Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days

If You Don't Do It, Get Your Money Back.

Ask any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar-coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

It's the new pleasant way to take nasty Cod Liver Oil and will not upset the most delicate stomach. Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good, healthy, solid flesh, and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, Jacobs' drug stores, and all druggists are authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

One thin woman gained 15 pounds in six weeks.

Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—50 tablets—60 cents.—(adv.)

Carroll County Couple Holds Golden Wedding Celebration

As the press of the nation is recalling anniversary celebrations of marriages over scores of years, friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Eady recall the golden wedding anniversary celebration held on November 2 at their home in Carroll county midst relatives, friends, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

In the same house where they were happily married and which has been in the family of Mrs. Eady for more than 100 years, the elderly couple this year will spend another Christmas. There it was the wedding was consummated. The Rev. J. M. Muse officiating. Attendants of the wedding have preceded the couple to the grave. On the date of the anniversary the Eady home was thrown open to ing the duties of managing editor of the paper. It was soon apparent to his friends that the double duties of his position were sapping his physical strength.

Mr. Mooney's general health in recent months, however, had appeared to be excellent.

Charles Patrick Joseph Mooney learned telegraphy when he was 14 years old. He taught school in Kentucky, his native state, for two years and then edited a weekly newspaper in Arkansas for two years.

In 1890, Mooney became a reporter for the Memphis Avalanche. Later he was city editor of the Memphis Scimitar and in 1896 became editor of the Commercial Appeal. He left Memphis for New York in 1902 to work for the New York Daily News, where he remained approximately a year. From 1903 to 1905 he was managing editor and editorial writer for the New York American.

Mooney went to Chicago as managing editor of the Examiner in 1905, remaining in that office until 1908, when he returned to Memphis to resume editorship of the Commercial Appeal.

Mooney, as editor of the Memphis morning paper, became widely known for his encouragement of agricultural industries and was recognized as a farm economist of ability. In the recent south-wide cotton conference held here to consider the market crisis, Mooney was chairman of the meeting. Mooney was a member of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve bank of St. Louis and a trustee of the University of Tennessee. He served for a period as vice president of the Associated Press.

Thirteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also were present.

LEVITZKI DESCRIBES MUSIC IN FAR EAST

"There are missionaries in art as well as in religion and education and medicine," declared Mischa Levitzki, the famous pianist, in an article he recently wrote and which was published in the Etude Musical Magazine of last September. Mr. Levitzki was writing on music in the orient and the antipodes. The young virtuoso will appear tonight at the auditorium in recital.

"The artist is really very little to induce the artist to visit the orient, if he seeks merely monetary gains," says Mr. Levitzki's article. "In Australia and the United States, Argentina and in Europe, he may expect large and just rewards for his talent and achievements. These countries have been developed for years, but China, the sleeping giant of the world, is just beginning to realize the wonders of music. Of course, there are some very fine Chinese musicians, but the great body of people are not alive to the great opportunities of the land."

"The same may be said of India. India has never been extensively exploited. Very few of the artists' tours or ventures have met with anything but disaster. But it is impossible to think that a great country like India, with the heaven of occidental culture mixed with their own highly developed philosophical accomplishments, would not be at some time in the future a field for concert artists."

"As one passes through India and gets into Egypt, he finds a revival of interest in music in Cairo. One of the finest performances of opera I have ever heard was there.

"Unfortunately, I was unable to go to Jerusalem, because of lack of time. I shall hope, however, to be there in the not distant future. Judging by some reports, one has reason to look for great things in that country in the future. Jewish musical ability and talent, when combined with the right facilities and high ideals, produce results well known to the world. The conversion of a fine new conservatory building has just been laid in Jerusalem."

CHURCH BURNS AT WRIGHTSVILLE

Wrightsville, Ga., November 22.—(P)—Fire that is supposed to have been caused by a combination destroyed the Brown Memorial Baptist church here, valued at $40,000, last night. The building is a total loss with only $10,000 insurance.

The church building was started in 1914 when Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown donated $10,000 for the work. It was finished by Bartow Tanner, of this place, at a cost of $20,000. It was one of the most imposing structures in this section of the state and one building the people of this city referred to with much pride.

FOR Acid Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda
For fifty years genuine "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases.

Try a 25c Bottle
Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five-cent and fifty-cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—(adv.)

Shaw Objects To Childless School Marm

London, November 22.—(P)—George Bernard Shaw, winner of the Nobel prize for literature, thinks that all school mistresses should have a baby. The Twickenham education committee recently dismissed the head mistress of the girls' secondary school on the ground that her responsibilities as the mother of a seven-month-old baby were incompatible with her duties. The head mistress, Dr. Isabel Turnage, is a doctor of philosophy and a bachelor of sciences, and has been married three years.

G. B. S. is quoted by the Westminster Gazette as commenting: "Twickenham is near the river, and the sooner the Twickenham people put their education committee in the river the better. It would be far more sensible to refuse to allow any woman to become a teacher unless she had at least one baby, and looked after it properly."

FARM LEGISLATION WILL BE PUSHED

loins, he said, are being sold in Kansas City 20 per cent less than fresh domestic pork.

"More good, solid thinking, it seems to me, is being given to the economic problems of the middle west this fall than in any former years," Capper said.

He pointed out that the farmers' dollars are now worth but 83 cents. The general level of farm prices, he explained, is now but 10 points above the 1921 level, which was right at the bottom.

Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, said today that congress should immediately adopt the McNary-Haugen or some similar plan, while Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, a house agricultural spokesman, saw a way to relieve the farmers through the surplus in the treasury.

"I believe agricultural forces in the west and south will be stronger than ever for the McNary-Haugen bill, for low prices for farm products are causing more talk than ever before," Senator Capper asserted, adding that farmers were keenly interested in development of inland water ways to provide cheaper transportation.

Disapproving the administration proposal for a tax credit, Representative Dickinson said existence of the treasury surplus would stop one of the principal arguments against farm relief, namely that revenues would not permit necessary expenditures.

He predicted the political future of any party would be in jeopardy if it did not favor consistently plan to aid both the farmer and business.

FALL-DOHENY JURY TO BE LOCKED UP

artist: Winfield Martindill, 23, clerk: Chester F. Parker, 35, grocery salesman.

No hint that they were to be isolated during the long trial was given when they were questioned and they received the unexpected news of their fate glumly. This means that in all probability these men will have no chance to go to their homes for the Thanksgiving, Christmas or New Year's as the trial is expected to run at least two months.

Youthful Panel.

These jurors are unusually young. Not one is gray-haired. All but three are under forty. Eight of the twelve are under thirty. The oldest is forty-four.

Only one is in business for himself. He runs a newsstand. Most others are employed as clerks or mechanics. One is a commercial artist for the Red Cross.

The first fight between the government prosecutors and the Fall-Doheny lawyers came immediately after the jury had been completed late in the afternoon. Owen J. Roberts, government counsel, went to the judge's bench. Frank J. Hogan, representing Doheny and Willton J. Lambert, representing Fall, were on his heels.

A whispered conference was held. Roberts asked the court during this conference to keep the jury locked up during the trial. Defense lawyers demanded that this request be put in open court so they might attack it. The court ruled with them and the government then made a formal motion.

"We do this," explained Roberts, "because this case involves the charge that money has been used to influence official acts. Part of the allegation is bribery. It will be a satisfaction to the jury, the government and the defendants if there can be no suspicion. The propriety of the situation requires the jury be kept together."

Hogan Charges Insult.

Hogan, his face red with indignation, declared this motion was an insult. "It is an attempt to single out this case and treat it differently," he said. "It has not been customary here for years to keep a jury in seclusion even in homicide cases. We had a triple murder case here and your honor did not order the jury kept locked up during the trial."

"You are asking me, by this motion, to say that there is something in this case that makes it dangerous to allow the normal procedure. To take this action is a reflection upon the defendants and tears up the presumption of innocence."

"This is a reflection upon the professional honor of every man representing the defendants. I would be regardless of my professional honor and dumb as to what this motion implies and I could not practice here without thinking that this action would be taken as a reflection upon my associates and myself."

"We had a conference with your honor last Friday over procedure and at that time the counsel for the prosecution made no such suggestion. We have been led into a trap."

Argument By Wise.

The battle of opposition was then taken up by another defense lawyer, Henry Wise.

"This motion is an insult to the defendants and the members of the bar on this side of the table," he declared. "What is the insinuation in Mr. Roberts' motion? Is the government going to corrupt this jury? No. It must be that the jury is to be protected from this side."

The third shot from the defendants came from Lambert.

"Why does the anatomy of a telephone call to the family of a prospective juror have to be placed on the defense?" he asked. "We know the government's mass of secret agents has been investigating the prospective jury. We should not be made the butt of the district attorney's insinuation and bear the stigma of them."

Denies Any Reflection.

Former Senator Allee Pomerene, of the government staff, denied that any reflection upon the defense lawyers was intended.

"But one of the overt acts in this indictment is that one of the defendants gave to the other $100,000. That's the situation. The telephone inquiries mentioned here are something to be guarded against."

Justice Hoehling retired to his chambers to prepare his decision.

"In the examination of prospective jurors today interrogations have come almost exclusively from the defendant's side regarding questions and visits to families of jurors," he said.

Reference has been made to an article in a newspaper which said the jurors had been reading a book called "Revelry." Without reflecting to any degree upon the counsel for the government or the defendants the motion to keep the jury together is granted."

Nine Peremptory Challenges.

In selecting the jury the government used nine of the 10 peremptory challenges allowed. The defense challenged four. No reasons were given in open court for these challenges.

Neither Doheny nor Fall appeared weighed down by the charges hanging over them. Doheny came in first, attended by a staff of secretaries and lawyers. He took a seat directly in front of the judge. Next to him sat his son, E. L. Doheny, Jr., a powerfully built young man, who carried the little black satchel with the $100,000 to Washington. He is to be called as a witness. Next to him sat Fall, his long moustache clipped a little, his pocket full of cigars. Dur-

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

Blotches Mar Beauty

Zemo for Itching, Irritations, Pimples and Blotches. Apply Any Time.

No more worry about ugly skin irritations. For you can have a clear, smooth skin. Zemo, the pleasant-to-use, clean liquid for itching, blotchy skin—banishes Blackheads, Ringworms and Pimples. Use any time. Get Zemo now. At druggists—60c and $1.00.

zemo FOR SKIN IRRITATION INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for podiatrists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and softens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.—(adv.)

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it, and it is pure and good.

Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid, too, for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Saturday, November 27, a radio program which will be devoted to the problems of the cotton-producing states is announced by the department of agriculture. It will be broadcast from southern stations, and one of the interesting, instructive features will be a dramatized version of a conversation recently held between Secretary Jardine and a southern cotton grower. The program will be well worth the "listening-in."

The advisory council appointed by Secretary Jardine to inquire into the application of new methods and the employment of machinery in farm operations has reported that the profits of farming can be largely increased by new processes and the use of labor-saving machines. Power and labor make up 60 per cent of farm-production costs and any saving on these items goes to the profit side of the farmer's ledger, if he has one. More than four billion dollars is now invested in farm machinery, and the sum should be doubled in the next five years.

The children's bureau reports upon the survey conducted in Georgia at the request and with the cooperation of the Georgia department of public welfare and the Georgia children's code commission. It says that in 1925 eight child-welfare bills were presented in the general assembly, and of these only the one affecting child labor was passed. Public opinion in the state, stimulated by women's associations especially, is increasingly favorable to needed reforms for child welfare, and the commission plans to continue the work of education in behalf of its program.

The girls and all others who keep the soda jerkers on a hop from daylight to midnight will be encouraged by the finding of the bureau of chemistry just issued. It announces that after thorough investigation it finds that the usual soft drinks have a fuel or energy value of from 58 to 174 calories, a caloric strength greater than that of numerous food products highly rated by dietitians. It finds very rare instances where the soda houses are rendered deleterious by the gases, flavors, syrups or dispensing apparatus. So the fountain frequenters are hereby encouraged to "have another."

The comparative cotton report issued Saturday evening for the period from August 1 to November 19 shows cotton "into sight" was 603,716 bales more in this year's period than in the like period of 1925. The taking of northern spinners was 729,165 bales, or 8,272 less. The takings of southern spinners were 1,058,610, or 98,572 more than in 1925. These latter figures are regarded by the department officials as significant of the steady growth and profitable continuous activity of southern mills.

Another decision was handed down by the court of claims denying the right of the government to make a club member, in this case of a manufacturer's country club, pay a tax of $50 which was collected as 10 per cent on $500 paid by him for a proprietary certificate entitling him to membership in the club property. It is possible that club members in Atlanta and Georgia have been mulcted in a like way if they can not get the government cough up and refund.

The interstate commerce commission has been asked today by a Birmingham, N. Y., firm to require the Southern railway and connections give a reasonable rate on peaches from Zebulon, Ga., to Saratoga, N. Y., and to pay back $65 for reparations.

CHAMBER SEEKS SURPLUS POWER OVER SOUTHEAST

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon went on record as urging that all surplus power produced at Muscle Shoals be distributed over the southeast instead of being concentrated in the vicinity.

Henderson Hallman, director of the chamber, left Sunday to attend the meeting in St. Louis of the Mississippi Valley association, which is to discuss Muscle Shoals and the distribution of its power, and make recommendations to the government. Telegrams notifying him of the official action of the chamber of commerce directors were sent him by President W. D. Hoffman.

The chamber endorsed the views of the Georgia Manufacturers association, the Georgia Ice Manufacturers association and other organizations, in adopting resolutions urging that all surplus power, not used in the manufacture of fertilizer, be sold to electric companies operating in the southeast for general use throughout that territory.

STONE MOUNTAIN SCULPTOR IN CITY TO INSPECT WORK

The future program of the Stone Mountain Memorial association will be mapped out during the visit to Atlanta of Augustus Lukeman, sculptor, who arrived in Atlanta Monday to view the progress of the carving of the Stone Mountain memorial, which he is supervising. He was accompanied to Atlanta by Colonel C. Chip, who is designing the memorial home at the foot of the mountain.

Mr. Lukeman will stay in Atlanta for several days and will confer with directors of the memorial association in planning the future work of the association. He will be the guest of Colonel William Lawson Peel during his visit to Atlanta.

NORMAL STUDENTS TO GIVE MUSICAL COMEDY TONIGHT

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

In yesterday's article, after stating that the score should not affect the original bid, I gave three hands and asked whether they should be bid originally by a dealer.

The answers are given today, and I will now discuss the hands in the order in which they appeared yesterday.

1. Spade: Ace-x-x. Heart: Ace-x-x. Diamond: Ace-x-x. Club: x-x-x-x. (x is any small card lower than ten.) This is the typical "three-ace hand." In days gone by, there were many who questioned the advisability of bidding a no trump with this holding, the popular belief being that some further strength was needed to justify that declaration; and even today there are a few who are too conservative to approve of the bid. I agree with this conservatism when advising beginners, or inferior players who are playing with experts; but on the broad question of whether three "base" aces should be doing so, I am convinced that in the long run the bid is advantageous when the general distribution of the hand brings it within the no trump category. With a worthless singleton I would not bid a three-ace no trump, and even with a worthless doubleton I might hesitate to do so. In the evenly divided hand above cited (the ideal 3-3-3-4 no trump distribution), and especially with four cards in the defenseless suit, I can see little justification, except inferior skill for failing to bid.

With No. 2, viz., spade: Ace-x-x. Heart: Ace-x-x. Diamond: King-x-x. Club: x-x-x-x there would be a difference of opinion among expert players. Some believe in bidding no trumps with two aces and one king; others consider it unwise to bid with any strength less than three aces. I belong to the latter school and would pass No. 2, although I would not hesitate to bid a no trump with it as severely as I would with No. 3. Let us compare the two hands. No. 3 is: Spade: x-x-x. Heart: King-x-x.

Positive Relief For Itch

First. Don't scratch. Scratching simply irritates and spreads the disease, often inducing blood poisoning.

Second. A pleasant-oil ointment, known as Tetterine, containing highly effective germ-destroying and skin-healing properties, never fails to bring quick and permanent relief.

Tetterine, through its clean, cooling, soothing, antiseptic effect, kills the germs that bore into the skin, causing irritation and itching. Tetterine is sold and guaranteed by all druggists at 60c for a large box, or sent direct, postpaid, upon receipt of price. Shuprine Co., Desk D, Savannah, Ga.—(adv.)

is much safer for a no trump than the latter. The second difference is that in No. 2 both majors would furnish good support for a major takeout by the partner; while in No. 3 the major strength is much less, offering a greatly reduced chance for game in the event of a major takeout. At a cursory glance one hand may seem as satisfactory for no trump as the other, but I believe there is a distinct difference; I would consider bidding No. 3 far less advisable than bidding No. 2.

The pointer for today is: Bid one no trump with three aces and an evenly divided hand; with less strength, pass. Tomorrow's article will discuss the difference between rubbers and progressive or duplicate.

10,000 ATLANTANS AT SUNDAY SCHOOL

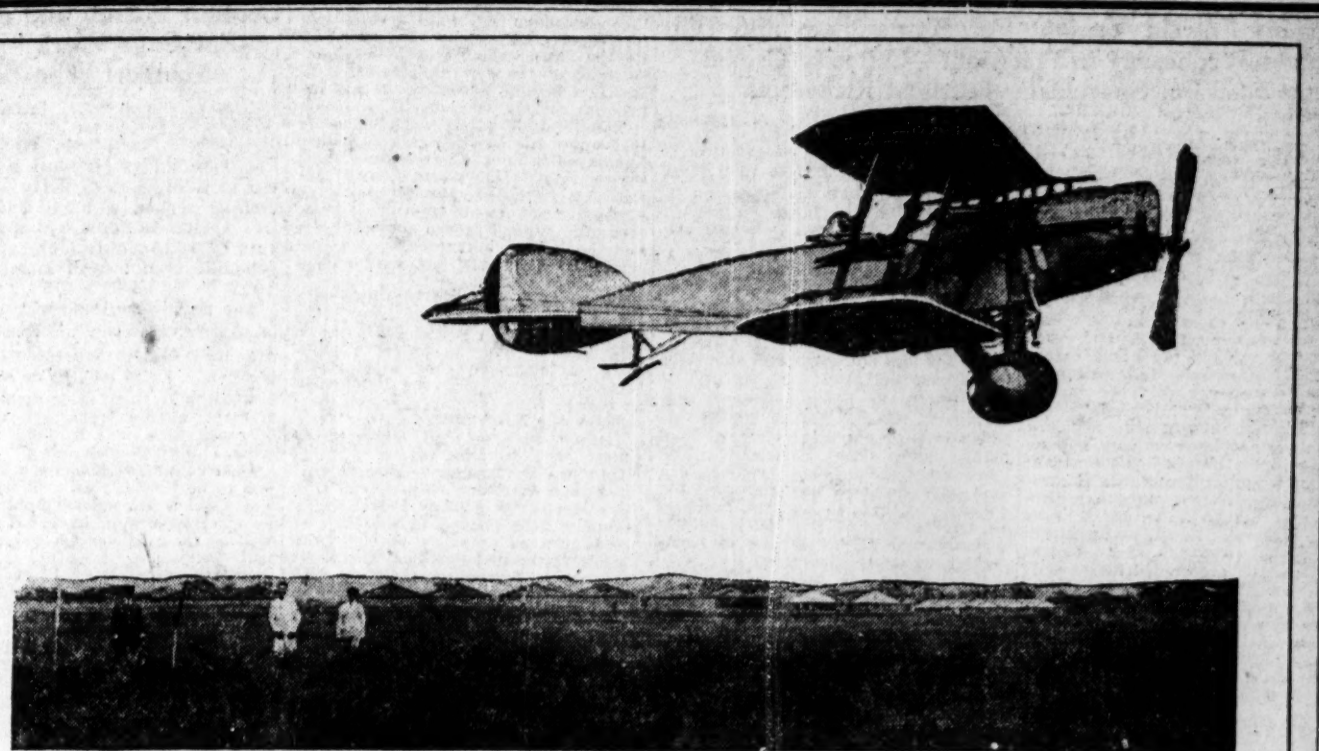

Nearly 10,000 persons attended 17 Sunday schools in Atlanta Sunday morning, according to reports filed Monday with the Georgia Sunday School association. Tabernacle Baptist reported the largest attendance, 1,572 being present. Druid Hills Methodist was second with an attendance of 1,018.

The Agoga class of the Tabernacle reported an attendance of 273, the highest individual class attendance in the city. The second largest class was the Alpha class of Wesley Memorial Methodist with 140 present. Susanah Wesley class of Druid Hills Methodist church, was third with 139.

COUNCIL OF WOMEN TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The regular meeting of the civic council of women will be held Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the council chamber of city hall, according to an announcement made by Mrs. J. E. Andrews, president of the association.

The special committee appointed some time ago to perfect plans for establishment of a municipal complaint bureau will hold a meeting at 10 o'clock, according to the announcement. The committee consists of a woman representative from each of the 12 wards and a group of business men.

Enlarging Atlanta's Territory VIA AIR MAIL

The successful operation of the Georgia-Florida Air Mail service,—connecting Atlanta with Macon, Jacksonville, Tampa, Fort Myers and Miami,—is another important step in making the whole Southeast "Atlanta territory."

The saving of approximately twelve hours' travel time for mail is often invaluable to bankers and business men, who find that modern conditions call for prompt action.

We congratulate those responsible for inaugurating this important link in Atlanta's transportation system. To The Citizens and Southern Bank, (the largest financial institution between Philadelphia and New Orleans) this new means of keeping in touch with its close banking and business connections throughout the Southeast has already proved valuable.

No Account too Large, None too Small

-again- All sales records broken by the New Silent Nokol

ANOTHER month, another million—and three-quarters! That's what the public thinks of the new Silent NOKOL. Here are the actual sales figures for the past three months:

July . . . $1,485,200
August . . . $1,642,261
September . . . $1,701,320

Never in the history of oil heat have such figures been approached before. Seldom in any industry has such an overwhelming preference been shown for any product.

This proves beyond a doubt that now the last remaining objection to oil heat, the noise bogey, has been removed.

It shows that thousands have wanted the efficiency and economy of NOKOL, but have been waiting for this final touch of perfection—the virtual elimination of noise.

Now with this highly perfected, fully automatic oil burner in your basement, you can sleep right through the "zero hour"—and you'll never know your NOKOL has gone to work. Not until the house begins to warm up and everything is bright and cheery as the dawn.

Here is oil heat at its luxurious best. Here is comfort and convenience you never dreamed of before. Here is silence that is truly golden. And all at a cost that any home owner can afford.

Cold weather luxury—at a few cents a day

If you think that efficient oil heat is for the favored few, you ought to see our records. More than 58% of NOKOL sales are made to owners of smaller homes—men and women of moderate means who know the true meaning of economy—know that the best is always cheapest in the long run.

Records show that NOKOL is the most economical full automatic oil burner made. It costs no more than hard coal—usually less. And you don't have to burn low-grade oil to get low-cost operation. This means there is never any smell of oil, inside or out. It means, too, that there will never be any soot or grimy oil film on walls or woodwork.

THE NEW Silent
NOKOL
AUTOMATIC OIL HEATING FOR HOMES

Now is the time to learn about the joys of NOKOL oil heat—before you lay in your coal for another winter. The initial payment is less than a few tons of coal—and you'll end shovel slavery forever; enjoy luxurious comfort and convenience through all the long winters ahead.

See the new Silent NOKOL today

Come in today and see the new Silent NOKOL in action. Learn about our convenient budget plan, which enables you to enjoy your NOKOL while paying for it.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgrow" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgrow" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.—(adv.)

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Serves about 12.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it, and it is pure and good.

Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup. And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid, too, for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacal, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Saturday, November 27, a radio program which will be devoted to the problems of the cotton-producing states is announced by the department of agriculture. It will be broadcast from southern stations, and one of the interesting, instructive features will be a dramatized version of a conversation recently held between Secretary Jardine and a southern cotton grower. The program will be well worth the "listening-in."

The advisory council appointed by Secretary Jardine to inquire into the application of new methods and the employment of machinery in farm operations has reported that the profits of farming can be largely increased by scientific methods and the use of labor-saving machines. Power and labor make up 60 per cent of farm-production costs and any saving on these items goes to the profit side of the farmer's ledger, if he has one. More than four billion dollars is now invested in farm machinery, and the sum should be doubled in the next five years.

The children's bureau reports upon the survey conducted in Georgia at the request and with the cooperation of the Georgia department of public welfare and the Georgia children's conference. It says that in 1925 eight child-welfare bills were presented in the general assembly, and of these only the one affecting child labor was passed. Public opinion in the state, stimulated by women's associations especially, is increasingly favorable to needed reforms for child welfare, and the commission plans to continue the work of education in behalf of its program.

The girls and all others who keep the soda jekers on a hop from daylight to midnight will be encouraged by the finding of the bureau of chemistry just issued. It announces that after thorough investigation it finds that the usual soft drinks have a fuel or energy value of from 58 to 174 calories, a caloric strength greater than that of numerous food products highly rated by dietitians. It finds very rare instances where the soda bases are rendered deleterious by the gases, flavors, syrups or dispensing apparatus. So the fountain frequenters are hereby encouraged to "have another."

The comparative cotton report issued Saturday evening for the period from August 1 to November 19 shows cotton "into sight" was 603,716 bales more in this year's period than in the like period of 1925. The taking of northern spinners were 729,193 bales, or 8,272 less. The takings of southern spinners were 1,958,610, or 98,572 more than in 1925. It is possible that club members in Atlanta and Georgia have been mulcted in a like way if so, they may make the government cough up and refund.

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

In yesterday's article, after stating that the score should not affect the original bid, I gave three hands and asked whether they should be bid originally by a dealer.

10,000 ATLANTANS AT SUNDAY SCHOOL

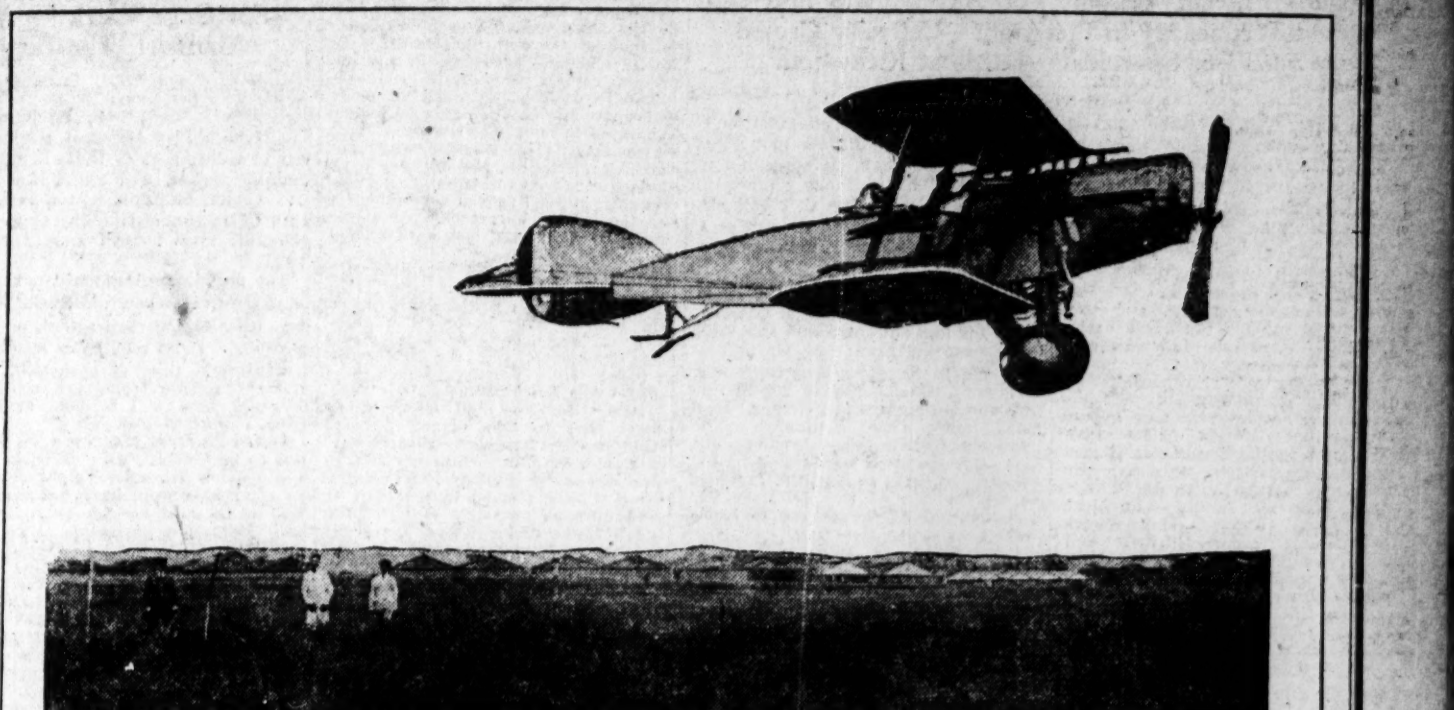

Nearly 10,000 persons attended 17 Sunday schools in Atlanta Sunday morning, according to reports filed Monday with the Georgia Sunday School association. Tabernacle Baptist reported the largest attendance, 1,672 being present. Druid Hills Methodist was second with an attendance of 1,618.

The Agoda class of the Tabernacle reported an attendance of 273, the highest individual class attendance in the city. The second largest class was the Alpha class of Wesley Memorial Methodist with 140 present. Sunnyside Wesley class, of Druid Hills Methodist church, was third with 139.

COUNCIL OF WOMEN TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The regular meeting of the civic council of women will be held Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the council chamber of city hall, according to an announcement made by Mrs. J. E. Andrews, president of the association.

The special committee appointed some time ago to perfect plans for establishment of a municipal complaint bureau will hold a meeting at 10 o'clock, according to the announcement. The committee consists of a woman representative from each of the 12 wards and a group of business men.

Enlarging Atlanta's Territory VIA AIR MAIL

The successful operation of the Georgia-Florida Air Mail service,—connecting Atlanta with Macon, Jacksonville, Tampa, Fort Myers and Miami,—is another important step in making the whole Southeast "Atlanta territory."

The saving of approximately twelve hours' travel time for mail is often invaluable to bankers and business men, who find that modern conditions call for prompt action.

We congratulate those responsible for inaugurating this important link in Atlanta's transportation system. To The Citizens and Southern Bank, (the largest financial institution between Philadelphia and New Orleans) this new means of keeping in touch with its close banking and business connections throughout the Southeast has already proved valuable.

-again- All sales records broken by the New Silent Nokol

ANOTHER month, another million—and three-quarters! That's what the public thinks of the new Silent NOKOL. Here are the actual sales figures for the past three months:

July . . . $1,485,200
August . . . $1,642,261
September . . . $1,701,320

Never in the history of oil heat have such figures been approached before. Seldom in any industry has such an overwhelming preference been shown for any product.

This proves beyond a doubt that now the last remaining objection to oil heat, the noise bother, has been removed.

It shows that thousands have wanted the efficiency and economy of NOKOL, but have been waiting for this final touch of perfection—the virtual elimination of noise.

Now with this highly perfected, fully automatic oil burner in your basement, you can sleep right through the "zero hour"—and you'll never know your NOKOL has gone to work. Not until the house begins to warm up and everything is bright and cheery as the dawn.

Here is oil heat at its luxurious best. Here is comfort and convenience you never dreamed of before. Here is silence that is truly golden. And all at a cost that any home owner can afford.

Cold weather luxury—at a few cents a day

If you think that efficient oil heat is for the favored few, you ought to see our records. More than 58% of NOKOL sales are made to owners of smaller homes—men and women of moderate means who know the true meaning of economy—know that the best is always cheapest in the long run.

Records show that NOKOL is the most economical full automatic oil burner made. It costs no more than hard coal—usually less. And you don't have to burn low-grade oil to get low-cost operation. This means there is never any smell of oil, inside or out. It means, too, that there will never be any soot or grimy oil film on walls or woodwork.

See the new Silent NOKOL today. Come in today and see the new Silent NOKOL in action. Learn about our convenient budget plan, which enables you to enjoy your NOKOL while paying for it.

But if you can't come in now, send for our booklet, "A New Guide to Oil Heat for Homes." It covers the entire subject of heating and gives you a vast store of information that every home owner ought to have. Sign and mail the coupon—today.

Leading Coaches Brand Pass Rule as Failure

Say Rule Has Failed To Achieve Object Of Rules Committee

Many Coaches Differ on Changing of Rule on Forward Passes—Shift Regulation Also Is Discussed by Members at Meeting—Stagg and Wilce Support New Ruling.

CHICAGO, November 22.—(AP)—A majority of the western conference coaches today expressed vigorous dissent with the new football rule in effect this year, inflicting five-yard penalties for successive incomplete forward passes after the first try.

A season's experience with the restriction has convinced most of them, they said, that it had failed to achieve the rules committee's object of cutting down indiscriminate passes.

The suggestion that the shift play be abolished, however, found opinion about evenly divided, and one coach, Wilce, of Ohio, is a vigorous advocate of the abolition of the point kick after touchdown.

Coaches Stagg, of Chicago, a member of the rules committee, and Wilce, are the only supporters of the new forward pass penalty rule.

Stagg favors rule. "I believe the rule is a distinct success," said Coach Stagg. "The penalties are almost nothing and yet it tends to hold the game to actual football. In regard to the shift, I haven't the slightest doubt that that maneuver adds color to football, but whether the shift infringes on the present style of play is a matter to be decided, in my opinion, by the game officials rather than by the coaches or the rules committee."

Coach Wilce hopes to see the point kick after touchdown abolished "as a matter of natural evolution," he said.

The pass penalty has added much to the game and the restrictions on shifts are not sufficiently stringent.

"The new forward pass penalty is an encumbrance on the game," said Coach Zuppke, of Illinois, and many of the big ten coaches concur. "It is utterly useless. As for the shift, the new restrictions have not worked out successfully. If the rule should be changed to make the backfield halt two seconds, the officials would have something definite upon which to base their decisions."

Three Coaches Agree. Coaches Yost, of Michigan, and Spears, of Minnesota, agree with the new forward pass penalty rule.

NEW RULE MAY RESULT FROM HARVARD GAME.

New York, November 22.—(AP)—The possibility of a new rule on the football books next season developed today from an incident that figured in Yale's defeat of Harvard Saturday.

Yale scored a touchdown after a long punt by Captain Coady drove the ball from deep Harvard territory to apparent safety far past midfield. The ball was called back when it was discovered that a Yale substitute had trotted on the field in the middle of the play, when Coady kicked again, blocked the kick, and Sturrah recovered the ball over Harvard's goal for a touchdown.

Not Babe Ruth. New York.—Babe is a black coffee addict. He likes a puff of it every morning. He is a big gray truck horse of Brooklyn.

In Favor of Change. Critics favoring a change in the rules say that Harvard, in effect, was penalized a touchdown because a substitute caused 12 Yale men to be on the field during the play. Yale suffered no penalty and received two chances to block one kick. Some critics suggested the rules be changed to allow the original kick to count as a play, disregarding the illegal substitution.

Webster Elected Captain of Yale. New Haven, Conn., November 22.—(AP)—William A. Webster, of Shelton, Conn., today was elected captain of the Yale football team. He has just closed his second season as a regular and has been one of the mainstays of the team, alternating at tackle and guard.

AT THE MEETING OF THE Y. M. C. A. Church athletic association, Monday night it was decided to close the basketball registration at the next meeting, Monday, and start the basketball league as early as possible in December.

The franchise fee for basketball must be in by next Monday, at which time the schedule committee, composed of Trammel Scott, chairman; Theo Abbey and J. S. Gauding, will draw up the first part of the schedule ready for play.

The committee on basketball league rules reported and the reports were adopted. It was decided to play two rounds in each league and at the conclusion of the first round the two first divisions in both leagues will be amalgamated, forming one league, and the lower divisions forming another.

And at the conclusion of the league the leaders of the first half and the winners of the second half will play a tournament for the championship of the entire association.

The rules also held that "no three players from any one team in another league shall be permitted to play on the same team in this league." It was also decided that the eligibility lists must be in the hands of the executive committee the Monday before the league schedule starts.

The motion was made last night that the league adopt a basketball, but lost in the vote and the league was instructed to have several leading balls presented at the next meeting with prices and other information.

The league voted last night to sponsor an intermediate Sunday school league made up of boys 14 years of age and under. The games will be played on Saturday afternoons at the Y. M. C. A.

A special membership rate was presented by the Y. M. C. A., which reads: "Any group of boys of ten or more from a Sunday school class, by joining such a group, will be given a full privilege membership for $3 per year per boy, which may be paid individually or as a group. This is a reduction of $2 per year per boy. The Y. M. C. A. church association is very anxious to see some of the younger boys in the Sunday schools given an opportunity to play. Those interested should be at the next meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Monday at 7:30 o'clock."

GETTY PICKS ALL-AMERICAN GRID ELEVEN

BY FRANK GETTY.

New York, November 22.—The following is an All-American football team for 1926 and not necessarily the All-American team.

Even before the death of the late Walter Camp, the "father of football" as well as others had come to realize the fact that no one man could with perfect fairness select 11 men whom he could name beyond question as the greatest players in the country.

And so the post-season sport of selecting All-American teams has come to be a matter of saying: "What a whale of a team this would be!"

The selection of Slagle for the fourth man in the All-American backfield needs no apology, despite the fact that his absence through injuries a good bit of the season. In the writer's opinion, Jake is the greatest natural football player in the east. Having been in scrimmage less than one minute in six weeks, he stepped in against Harvard in what may be the last football game between the Crimson and the Orange and Black and showed all his accustomed ability as the most valuable of triple threat men.

What opposing quarter-back would like to pick a weakness in a line which had the triangular Gibraltar of Hess, Daley and Shively as an impregnable center defense, with Wickford and Lussman, powerful, rangy and aggressive tackles, and such fleet, hard-hitting flank men as Swanson and Hal Brodie?

There would be no stopping the backfield, composed as it is of four triple threat men, any of whom is capable of irresistible line-bucking when a couple of yards are necessary. From the first kick-off to the last of a hypothetical game, it is hard to see what would prevent this team from constantly scoring.

Incidentally, this is the first All-American team within memory that does not include a Yale player.

Not Babe Ruth. New York.—Babe is a black coffee addict. He likes a puff of it every morning. He is a big gray truck horse of Brooklyn.

In Favor of Change. Critics favoring a change in the rules say that Harvard, in effect, was penalized a touchdown because a substitute caused 12 Yale men to be on the field during the play. HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Drag Out the Gun.

Along about this time of the year the sportsman finds himself taking the old gun out of the cabinet and consulting his road chart in preparation for the Thanksgiving "bird shoot" trip down in south Georgia, up in the Carolinas or wherever he happens to believe that the "birds" are waiting to keep his appointment.

And that is as it should be. To our way of thinking, the man who has never tramped across the wind-bitten hills of Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, or any of the other 48 states, behind a good bird dog, has missed his birthright.

If he has missed the thrill of standing behind a dog that is "set" on a point, has never felt the tingle of every nerve as a dozen or more quail flush in a whirl of wings followed by the crack of guns, he has missed one of the greatest "kicks" of outdoor sports.

We might go on endlessly in a eulogy to the hunt but that is not our intention. Our desk was favored recently with a copy of the report on cooperative quail investigation for 1925 and 1926 as published by the committee representing the quail study fund for southern Georgia and northern Florida—L. S. Thompson, chairman—to present for information of subscribers to the fund and others interested in the preservation and increase of bobwhite quail, the results of the first two years' investigations by the committee. The report is made in cooperation with the U. S. Biological survey represented by Herbert L. Stoddard.

It has been our displeasure to read many biological surveys in the past which were but a jumble of scientific terms and were possessed of as much interesting information as a crossword puzzle for a Fill Island native. But this survey contains many extremely interesting facts, plainly stated, and we will reproduce some of the most important for the perusal of sportsmen. The following excerpts are directly quoted from the report.

1. "In a study of 44 nests no case was noted of a cock and hen alternating in the work of incubating eggs. So far as could be ascertained 15 were entirely in charge of the cock and 29 in charge of the hen. . . . The hypothesis that the cock sometimes takes over a nest as soon as the hen completes laying, when she lays and incubates another set of eggs herself, is an interesting one, supported by some circumstantial evidence. The variation of the records shows, however, the danger of drawing hasty conclusions.

2. "Covies frequently range over a radius of at least a quarter of a mile. For the same group of birds has been taken in traps far apart. It has also been determined by trapping that the number of covies ranging a preserve may be greatly overestimated, because of the belief that 'branches' or narrow swamps serve as natural barriers. In one case what was supposed to be three separate covies was found to be one and the same, the birds having the habit of dividing their time between three natural units of their range.

3. "It has also been demonstrated that a covey is frequently simply a unit of convenience. For instance, if a quail chick strays from its covey it may join a nearby group of birds of an entirely different size, only to rejoin its old companions later if it comes in contact with them. . . . Young covies combine freely with others frequenting the same range late in summer, and many large covies are the result of such combinations, young quail of two or three different sizes often being seen together. . . . Once definitely formed, however, the covey is apt to remain a unit during the winter months."

An exhaustive study of quail foods not only holds some interesting facts regarding the habits of the birds but gives a good hint to hunters as to what to preserve may be greatly overestimated, because of the belief that 'branches' or narrow swamps serve as natural barriers. In one case what was supposed to be three separate covies was found to be one and the same, the birds having the habit of dividing their time between three natural units of their range.

According to the report, a large portion of the food of the quail consists of legumes such as partridge peas, milk peas, Continued on Page 12, Column 1.

The league voted last night to sponsor an intermediate Sunday school league made up of boys 14 years of age and under. The games will be played on Saturday afternoons at the Y. M. C. A.

A special membership rate was presented by the Y. M. C. A., which reads: "Any group of boys of ten or more from a Sunday school class, by joining such a group, will be given a full privilege membership for $3 per year per boy, which may be paid individually or as a group. This is a reduction of $2 per year per boy. The Y. M. C. A. church association is very anxious to see some of the younger boys in the Sunday schools given an opportunity to play. Those interested should be at the next meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Monday at 7:30 o'clock."

hog peanuts, sweet pea, milk vetch, bushclover, and scores of other weed seeds common in this state.

Finding abundant pine mast seems to be the surest indication of the presence of quail, according to the report, which declares that 43.3 per cent of food found in 302 bird stomachs examined consisted of this material. During the month of November when the pine "seeds" are falling in abundance the percentage of this material in the food of quail runs to 77 per cent the report states.

We would be happy if we had sufficient space to print all the interesting facts contained in the survey, but such an undertaking would be impossible. It is filled with facts about the queer nesting habits of the south's greatest game bird and a hundred-and-one other intimate glimpses of the life of these tiny feathered folk. The committee is doing a great work in their effort to preserve the quail of this state and others in Dixie and any financial aid given to the organization

'Loyalty' Wins Great Ovation Of Big Throng

Rivalling in appeal and entertainment the best plays of the last decade, an unknown and untried product of an Atlanta physician, without the ballyhoo of Broadway and minus even the usual advance publicity, enthralled a brilliant and loyal audience last night at the Forsyth.

"Loyalty," Dr. Walpole Brewer's gripping play was presented for the first time before any audience by the Forsyth Players, receiving at the curtain the first act the most prolonged ovation in recent months. At the end of the second act the applause was as great as at the conclusion of the third act the ovation grew in proportions until Dr. Brewer was brought to the stage and the audience got a glimpse of the author of a play that is destined to make new history in theater circles.

It was a spontaneous outburst of an audience that recognized the powerful plot and appreciated the merits of a play that lacked nothing that was not overdrawn and a production that combined the choicest bits of humor and the most gripping moments. Here a touch of pathos, a warm smile, a heartache—there a flash of humor, a bright line and a real laugh. It is truly a wonderful mixture.

As a play against war it stands among the most forceful things of its kind written since the world war, and yet it is without much of the so-called war play entertainment, for it is an excellent production that combines the finest features plus an unmistakable lesson.

James Coots and Jeanne Devereaux, central figures in the play, never showed such striking ability and wholeheartedness to put over the offering. And Jay Mulvey, Alan Devitt, Gus Forbes and Rhea Dively also in good roles, added tremendously to the success of the premiere. Miss Dively's work, particularly as Gold Star mother was one of the most excellent bits of playing seen here in some time.

Miss Dively and Mulvey, in perhaps the most difficult roles of the and shoulders above the usual run of comedians and if there is anyone in Atlanta suffering from the need of some genuine laughter, the old doctor can do no better than prescribe several doses of "Jim's" fun.

The Loew bill is unusually strong this week. Willis and McFarlane and their "Dancing Pirates" offer a marvelous dancing number, which is full of many new steps. Cook and Vernon shew with a clever comedy skit sprinkled with typical songs, while West, Gates and Hanes were well received in a song and dance offering. Achilles and Newman present a wonderful juggling novelty as an opener. Elmer Glyn's "Love's Blindness" is the Loew feature picture, and it is written in Mrs. Glyn's best style. Pauline Starke and Antonio Moreno play leading roles in this excellent picture. With such a comedian as "Jim," Toney as vaudeville headliner, and such a pleasing romance as Mrs. Glyn's production, the Loew program proved to be one of the best of the year.

show, carried us back to Croix Rouge farm and St. Mihiel days, as we heard again the terrifying throat rattle and muffled cries of our buddies passing over into eternity, victims of Boche guns and deadly gases. Miss Devereaux, as a former Red Cross worker, Coots, as a former army lieutenant, Devitt and Joseph Egerton, as war munition factory owners, and Mulvey as a fearful example of the shell-shocked soldier, were outstanding. Many others in the cast, which space forbids us to mention, were top-notch in every detail.

DANCERS FEATURE WEEK AT KEITH'S GEORGIA THEATRE

A wonderful dancing act; a personal appearance of one of the screen's most accomplished and versatile actors, in a short sketch; a "nut" comedy of infinite buffoonery, with a feminine partner of eye-filling pulchritude; a clever juggler with an amusing sideline of "chatter," and a male quartette of rather original type, makes up the vaudeville bill in the second week of Atlanta's most sumptuous playhouse to date, Keith's Georgia.

On the screen there is a feature picture which is sure to cause a lot of comment 'round town. Rod LaRocque is the star and the title of the picture is "Gigolo." It is a marvellously acted thing, first honors going to Mr. LaRocque, with Louise Dresser running a close second. It finishes with a little abruptly, and there is too big a break here, the interesting stopping point and the obviously "tacked on," happy ending. But, when happy endings are necessities, what would you expect?

Shaw and Carroll's revue provides the exceptional dancing. Charles de Roché is the movie star appearing in person. Miss Fern Redmond is the decorative half of the excellent comedy duo, with H. Wells billed as the comedian. This act ties with the dancing revue, which place of popularity, and might take first place with a little more eccentric dancing in place of some of the patter. "The Two Daves" provide the "juggling act," while "The Crooners" is the entertainment of the male quartette.

COMEDIAN STARS ON NEW PROGRAM AT LOEW'S GRAND

With a line of breezy comedy, a trick fall that is a riot of fun and an eccentric dance that provokes screams of laughter, "Jim" Toney, fun maker and dancer, literally "stopped the show" at Loew's Grand, where he and his partner, Ann Normand, are appearing as the headline attraction on the vaudeville bill. MEETING IN BIBB COUNTY ON ROAD FUND DEMAND

Macon, Ga., November 22.—(AP)—A conference planned for late today by persons interested in Bibb county's demand that the state highway department pay $700,000 to Bibb county, the amount the board is alleged to owe, failed to materialize.

The meeting, held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, it was announced.

The sum of $700,000, which Bibb county is demanding, is a highway department owe, has been accumulating over a period of several years, it is claimed.

R. L. Kennedy, editor of Macon News, and James C. Estes, county attorney, are to be the spokesmen in presenting the matter before the highway board.

James C. Estes, county attorney, said tonight that the statement from State Highway Engineer Neal to the effect that Bibb county could not be reimbursed until the state highway system was completed was based upon a provision of the old law under which the certificate held by Bibb county was issued.

"But," said Mr. Estes, "the act of 1921 provides payment to counties to reimburse them for money spent on highways where the county has built permanent roads, which otherwise would have been done by the highway commission."

"Bibb county is asking for reimbursement for money expended in building these permanent roads."

BOB O'FARRELL IS NATIONAL'S VALUABLE MAN

BY JAMES CRUSINBERY.
(Last Column in Chicago Tribune.)
Chicago, Ill., November 22.—Bob O'Farrell, catcher, who was a bench warmer most of the time last year by the Chicago Cubs to the St. Louis Cardinals a year ago last spring, has been chosen as the most valuable player in the National League for the season of 1926, according to a report in a New York newspaper.

O'Farrell had little opposition in winning the honor, which carries with it a bonus of $1,000. The selection was made by a committee of baseball writers, and O'Farrell led all competitors with a score of 79 points out of a possible 80. The man closest to him, according to the vote, was Cris, of the Cincinnati club, who was followed by 69 points, and the third man in the rating was Pitches Kramer, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, with a vote of 32 points as follows:

O'Farrell, St. Louis—79.
Cris, Cincinnati—69.
Pitches, Pittsburgh—32.
Theriot, St. Louis—30.
Wilson, Chicago—25.
L. Bell, St. Louis—24.
Hargrave, Cincinnati—21.
Rhen, St. Louis—20.
Lindstrom, New York—17.

Northwestern Student Body Celebrates Plenty

Chicago, November 22.—(AP)—Twelve hundred noisy undergraduates of Northwestern university, celebrating the Purple 15th, in the western conference football play, a demonstration that rocked Chicago.

From the College of Liberal Arts in Evanston to the Chicago campus for professional schools, the students carried their whooping batallions, the Purple 15th, in the western conference football play, a demonstration that rocked Chicago.

The Wildcat football team's 13-to-6 victory over Iowa Saturday gave Northwestern the Purple 15th, the Big Ten title, each having won five conference games and lost none.

But President Walter Dill Scott, Northwestern's president, said that the Purple 15th was a "great honor" to the university, but that the students' celebration was "excessive" and "unbecomingly noisy."

Marching to the downtown campus the students stormed the classroom and demanded that medical, dental, legal and commerce students join their soiree. These, inured to the contagion of enthusiasm, declined.

But the undergrads proceeded undaunted down Michigan avenue to the Rialto and stormed a movie theater.

The students, who were dressed in their best, were met by a gate-crashing which would have prompted One-Eyed Connolly to abdicate. They marched in single file into the theater, each holding a ticket.

When a score or so had entered, that dignity became suspicious, but before the students could get into the theater, the police had the entrance blocked.

The rest resumed the demonstration outside.

Tonight the whole throng paraded back to Evanston in a snowstorm and capped the celebration with a mammoth bonfire, free dances and free movies tendered by Evanston theaters.

"The Spanish Shawl." All the principals in the company give excellent performance.

The Mitchell brothers, singing banjoists, are the appetizers of the stage program. The overture is sung by "L. B. B." Melvin Ogden at the Wurliizer with "At Peace With the World." Another of the technicolor series, "Mona Lisa," is also shown.

One of the biggest shows ever offered on a colored performers' stage in Atlanta is the Harlem Frolics, a superb collection of stars. Featuring the stars is Bessie Smith, who is known over the south and in other parts of the country for her many records and successes and for her dances on stages rendering her blues songs, which have made her famous. She is the highest paid colored recording singer in the country. Also featured in the "Harlem Frolics" is Diana Scott, who has been presenting his company over the country in vaudeville since 1918.

GEORGIA, FLORIDA RAILWAY IS SOLD BY DECISION TO GRID FAME

Augusta, Ga., November 22.—(AP)—The Georgia and Florida railway, with principal offices in Augusta, was sold at public auction here early this afternoon to a purchasing committee of the late John Skelton Williams syndicate for $1,000,000. John Skelton Williams, Jr., Frank H. Weston and Brice Claggett composed the purchasing committee.

J. A. Flythe, commissioner of the road, read the papers advertising the sale and describing the property. At the conclusion of the reading, the Williams syndicate entered a bid of $1,000,000. No other bids were received.

The new company will be known as the Georgia and Florida railway, of which H. W. Purvis will be president and general manager, with R. Lancaster Williams, chairman of the board of directors, succeeding his brother. Lancaster Williams is now a director in the Missouri Pacific railway system and prominent in railroad circles. He was one of the receivers of the Seaboard Air Line, a member of the reorganization committee of the road. He has been actively identified with matters pertaining to the Georgia and Florida railway for years, assisting his brother and William G. Flythe, in the reorganization of the road.

When the sale was concluded by Flythe, the railroad immediately began operating under the new ownership of the reorganized system.

CHARTER GRANTED IN COLUMBIA
Columbia, S. C., November 22.—(AP)—The Georgia and Florida railway company was granted a charter by the secretary of state here today to operate a railroad line from Augusta, Ga., and North Augusta, S. C., to the city of Greenwood, S. C.

The maximum capital stock to be issued, according to the application, is $19,000,000. The charter fee was more than $5,000.

Among the declarants in the application for the charter are R. H. Purvis, Williams, of Baltimore; H. W. Purvis, Williams, of Richmond, and Francis H. Weston, of Columbia.

WOMAN'S DIVISION TRADE CHAMBER HOLDS MEETING

The monthly meeting of the woman's division was held Monday evening at 6 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Interesting and inspiring talks were made on the subject of "Women Citizens," by the following members of the division: Mrs. J. H. Purvis, Mrs. Almonzo Richardson, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mrs. R. L. Turman, Mrs. John K. Otley and Miss Eleanor Roper.

The book shower held by the division for the benefit of the tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto proved very successful. It was reported that the division is cooperating with the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, of which it is a member, in assembling the library of the sanitarium.

Reports were made by the committee in charge of the division's part in the book sale, showing successful returns. Several selections were offered by Mrs. Adeline M. Swagerty, Mrs. J. H. Purvis, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mrs. R. L. Turman, Mrs. John K. Otley and Miss Eleanor Roper.

championship honors. If the New York state eleven can stop the Michigan-Randall combination in the Thanksgiving day game at Providence, it may break up Brown's victorious march. If, on the other hand, the aerial antics of the Bears are successful, "Mishel to Randall" will deserve a place in football annals along with such other famous passing pairs as Wyman-Boston, of Minnesota; Fritchard-Merrill, of West Point; Oberlander-Tully, of Dartmouth; and Friedman-Oosterbaan, of Michigan.

Michigan, Alabama, Washington and Princeton also owed much of their 1925 success to the pass, but the old-fashioned running game and the field goal have dominated the play in most of this season's big games.

Title at Stake.
Brown is only one of several major teams whose title hopes are at stake in concluding games this week. On Saturday the Navy stakes its hopes on an eastern championship as well as service honors in the battle with Army at Chicago, while Notre Dame faces an unexpectedly tough assignment against Carnegie at Pittsburgh. Boston college, its slate marred only by a victory over Holy Cross, is the same time with its old rival, Holy Cross, at Boston.

Colgate alone stands in the way of an unbeaten season for Brown and a claim to eastern as well as national

Miss Raine Weds Mr. Watson At Elaborate Home Ceremony

Notable for its impressive dignity and exquisite beauty was the wedding of Miss Catherine Strode Raine and Marion Noble Watson, of Montgomery, Ala., which was solemnized Monday evening at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Raine, on West Peachtree street. The brilliant ceremony marked an epoch in the annals of southern social history and assembled several hundred members of fashionable society and prominent out-of-town guests. Appropriate airs were played by an orchestra during the assembling of the guests and the orchestra played the wedding march from Lohengrin for the entrance of the bride.

The marriage service was read by the Rev. Dr. W. W. Memminger, rector of the All Saints' Episcopal church, the ceremony taking place at the northern end of the spacious living room before the wide mantel, which was banked with palms, ferns, foliage plants and floral baskets. Arising from the center of the fern green foliage was a large basket filled with white pom pom chrysanthemums. On either side were floor baskets holding huge pom pom white chrysanthemums, while handsome cathedral candelabra holding burning white tapers rose above the gorgeous decorations and illuminated the exquisite scene. The broad stairway from which the bride attendants descended was garlanded with smilax adorned at intervals with graceful clusters of white chrysanthemums. A beautiful basket of white pom pom chrysanthemums graced the newel post at the foot of the stairway.

The bridesmaids entered first wearing pastel blue chiffon gowns and carrying garlands of sunset roses, which they formed a floral aisle for the beautiful bride. They were followed by the bridesmaids, who wore white tulle gowns and carried garlands of white roses, and three tiers of skirts.

of rhinestones outlined the tiers of the graceful skirts and the modest neckline in the back and front. The bridesmaids included Miss Dorothy Raine, sister of the bride; Miss Leonora Gordon, of Rome; Misses Martha Everett and Elizabeth Cooper, of Hendersonville; Miss Della Thomas, of Mayville, Ky.; Miss Phoebe Yancey, of Glen Ridge, N. J.; and Misses Ellen Newell and Corday Rice. Miss Edna Raine, another sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor. She entered alone wearing a gown of yellow chiffon fashioned similar to the bridesmaids' and trimmed with rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of sunset roses tied with yellow tulle. The two little flower girls, Misses Doris Becker and Helen Knowles, entered together. They wore dainty frocks of yellow chiffon trimmed with narrow cream lace and carried small baskets of yellow roses and valley lilies. The ring bearer, Little Miss George Dargan, preceded the bride. She carried the diamond circlet in the center of a single yellow rose. Little Miss Dargan's costume was fashioned of yellow chiffon with cream lace trimmings and tiny blue French flowers.

Radiant Bride

The radiant young bride descended the stairs with her father, Joseph S. Raine, by whom she was given in marriage. They were joined at the altar by the Rev. Dr. W. W. Memminger, assisted by his best man, Edward K. Van Winkle. Joseph Raine, Jr., and Godfrey Trammell were the groomsmen who attended the room. The bride's gown was a beautiful French creation of white chiffon satin combined with silk tulle. The satin skirt was caught in a soft drapery effect at the left side where it was held in place with a cabochon of pearls. The bottom of the skirt was formed by a twelve-inch ruffle which revealed a white lace underskirt. A conventional pearl embroidery of flowerlike design finished the skirt at the top of the tulle ruffle. Esquisite embroidered pearl medallions starred with rhinestones outlined the deep transparent tulle yoke of the bodice which was fashioned V back and front neckline. A graceful train of tulle and satin was adjusted to the shoulders with handsome pearl ornaments. The upper part of the train was formed of the tulle while the lower part was fashioned of satin. A wide flounce of princess lace bordered the train being joined to the satin with tiny orange blossoms. The train of real lace fell to the end of the train from a close-fitting cap effect which was confined to her head with a single row of rhinestones across the front and sprays of orange blossoms at the back which were caught on either side with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

Brilliant Reception

Following the marriage service, Mr. and Mrs. Raine entertained at a brilliant reception. Mrs. Raine was handsomely gowned in pink chiffon veiling satin of the same shade and embroidered in crystals. She wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. L. C. Watson, of Rome, the groom's mother, wore an orchid-shaded crepe gown trimmed with silver and lavender metal cloth. She wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. Geddings Tupper, of New Orleans, the bride's aunt, wore a black velvet gown trimmed with rhinestones.

and a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. Clark Frazier, the bride's aunt, was gowned in black chiffon and wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Mrs. John A. Raine, another aunt of the bride, wore a costume of black lace and chiffon and her shoulder bouquet was of orchids. A group of friends assisted in receiving and included Mrs. George B. Raine, Mrs. Cleveland Wilcoxson, Mrs. Deacon Scruggs, Misses Harriet Shedd, Ida Sadler, Ethel Hunter, Mary Ballenger, Louise Nelson, Mary Brown Spaulding, Margaret Elder, Telsie Pratt and Callie Orme. Coffee was served in the library, which was elaborately decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and smilax. A profusion of these same beautiful blossoms combined with smilax, was used in the decoration of the other rooms of the lower floor, where the guests were received. An effective color motif of green and white was carried out in the dining room. The bride's table was overlaid with an exquisite patchwork cloth. In the center of the table the bride's cake, richly embossed in valley lilies and roses, rested on a plateau of white rosebuds and valley lilies.

Topping the wedding cake was a white spun candy basket, holding valley lilies showered with lilies and narrow white satin ribbons. Surrounding the beautiful central decoration were silver candlesticks holding burning white tapers and tied with sprays of valley lilies. Silver baskets and vases filled with white chrysanthemums were arranged on the mantel, buffets and serving tables. During the evening Mr. Watson and his bride left for a wedding trip to North Carolina and will return to Montgomery, Ala., where they will reside. The bride's traveling costume was a striking model of brown flat crepe made with an accordion-pleated skirt, a band of lighter shade being introduced at the bottom of the skirt. Her hat was a small shape banded in brown fur and snake skin. A smart brown velvet short coat completed the attractive costume.

Sidney Dickinson Will Be Honored By Miss Forbes

Sidney Dickinson, distinguished American artist who is in Atlanta painting the portrait of Mrs. J. M. High, donor of the High Museum of Art, will be honor guest in the box of Miss Forbes, noted New York actress, at the concert of Mischa Levitzki which will assemble southern society tomorrow evening at the auditorium. Miss Forbes' box will be, her mother, Mrs. Walter Forbes, Miss Julia Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Cannon Forbes, Stanton Forbes and Tillou and Walter Forbes, Jr., and Mr. Dickinson.

Last spring Mr. Dickinson completed a portrait of Levitzki which has been extensively exhibited and is considered one of the best canvases of the artist. Other boxholders for the evening will be the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the Drama League, Atlanta Woman's club, North Avenue Presbyterian church, Washington senior, Woolberry hall and the Morgan-Stephens conservatory.

Among the distinguished out-of-town persons who will arrive for the concert will be Miss Lucy Stanton, of Athens, the famous miniature painter, who will bring a party of University of Georgia students; Miss Willie Rutherford Lipscomb and her niece, Mrs. Lamar Rutherford Lipscomb, of Athens.

Nearly 300 girls from Agnes Scott college have chartered a special car, which will bring them to the concert. A large group of students from Brenau college-conservatory will be present. Miss Alma Taylor, of Barnesville, Ga., and party have made reservations. Mrs. Martha Atkinson will chaperone members of the Junior Music club, of Madison, Ga., who are coming to Atlanta for the occasion. Frank Sheffield, Jr., of Americus will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Armond Carroll for the concert.

Western Union Service Department Gives Dance.

The service department of the Western Union Telegraph company entered at a dance Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Margaret White. The dance was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Mrs. Campbell Gives Informal Tea.

Mrs. J. E. Campbell was hostess at a tea Thursday afternoon at her home on East Fourth street, honoring her Spanish class at the Atlanta Woman's club. Mrs. Campbell, who is a native of Spain and a former teacher of Spanish at Wellesley college, arranged an attractive and artistic display of old Spanish jewelry and needlework, including a number of heirlooms.

In her collection there was a pale green embroidered and fringed Spanish shawl, which had belonged to her grandmother and was over 50 years old. There were exquisite hand-made cream and black lace mantillas which had been done by girls in a Spanish convent, and her collection of rare old lace of intricate design and dainty embroideries on handwoven linen was a marvelous exhibition of needlecraft. A Paisley shawl was particularly beautiful in its warm, rich and harmonizing colors.

Mrs. Campbell was assisted in entertaining and serving at the tea table by Mrs. H. E. Stockbridge, Mrs. M. P. Caldwell and Miss Helen McDonald. About 20 guests were invited.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

AND SO THIS CAPTIVE YOUTH LED AN EASY, LUXURIOUS, GOD-LIKE EXISTENCE. ONE MONTH BEFORE THE DAY OF HIS SACRIFICE THE FOUR MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRLS OF THE CITY, NAMED FOR THE PRINCIPAL AZTEC GODDESSES, WERE THEN SELECTED. WITH THEM AS HIS COMPANIONS THE VICARIOUS TEZCATILPOCA LIVED A JOYOUS, CARE-FREE EXISTENCE. ON OCCASIONS HE WAS FETED AT THE BANQUETS OF THE PRINCIPAL NOBLES, AND TO HIM WERE PAID ALL THE HONORS DUE A DIVINITY. MEANTIME, HIS CAREER WAS DRAWING STEADILY TO A CLOSE. FINALLY, THE DAY OF THE SACRIFICE ARRIVED. THE PSEUDO TEZCATILPOCA WAS STRIPPED OF HIS GORGEOUS APPAREL AND SAID HIS LAST FAREWELL TO THE BEAUTIFUL GIRLS WHO HAD SHARED HIS REVELRIES. THEN WITH MAGNIFICENT CEREMONY ONE OF THE ROYAL BARGES CONVEYED THE WHILOM GOD ACROSS THE LAKE TO A TEMPLE. THE INTEREST OF THE POPULATION WAS KEPT TO FEVER HEAT BY THE SUPERB DRAMA UNFOLDING BEFORE THEM. AND AS THE BARGE MOVED MAJESTICALLY ACROSS THE SHIMMERING WATER, THE POPULACE FOLLOWED TO WITNESS THE TRAGIC CONSUMMATION OF THE CEREMONY.

Fernando Cortez

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING,
NOTED HISTORIAN

ARRIVED AT THE TEMPLE, THE SAD PROCESSION, TO THE ACCOMPANIMENT OF MOURNFUL MUSIC, SLOWLY WOUND ITS WAY UP THE SIDES OF THE PYRAMID, AS THE UNHAPPY VICTIM MOVED NEARER AND NEARER TO HIS DOOM. HE TOSSED AWAY ONE BY ONE THE FLOWERS THAT BEDECKED HIS HEAD AND FELL IN GORGEOUSLY COLORED FECTIONS FROM HIS NECK AND SHOULDERS. AND NOW THE CHIEF ACTOR IN THIS MOVING DRAMA BROKE IN PIECES THE MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS WHICH HAD GIVEN GAIETY TO THE HOURS OF HIS CAPTIVITY. THE SUMMIT REACHED, THE VICTIM WAS RECEIVED BY SIX PRIESTS WEARING BLACK ROBES COVERED WITH MYSTIC SIGNS. THE PRIESTS TIED HIM, BACKWARD, OVER THE SACRIFICIAL STONE. MEANTIME, ONE, GARBED IN A SCARLET MANTLE, STOOD READY WITH A SHARP STONE RAZOR.

ALL WAS NOW READY. THE BLOOD OF THE VICTIM WAS OPENED AND HIS PALPITATING HEART TORN OUT, WHILE THE MULTITUDES BELOW PROSTRATED THEMSELVES IN VENERATION OF THEIR GOD. THE BODY OF THE VICTIM WAS THEN DELIVERED TO THE WARRIOR WHO HAD TAKEN HIM IN BATTLE AND AFTERWARDS SERVED AT A FEAST, WHICH WAS IN NO SENSE BARBARIC, WHERE THE TABLES WERE LOADED WITH DELICIOUS VIANDS AND BEVERAGES. THE BANQUET WAS ATTENDED BY BOTH SEXES, WHO CONDUCTED THEMSELVES WITH ALL THE DECORUM AND CONVENTIONS OF CIVILIZED LIFE.

J. M. HIGH CO.
44 Years of Faithful Service and Value-giving

Slams Salaams
and
By Louise Dooly

ONE of the hardest things the old-fashioned man has to adjust himself to in the new fashioned woman is letting her have part of the morning paper at breakfast.

Aren't women adventurous in the way they dress themselves? I looked around a crowded hotel dining room last night, with everybody in dinner clothes, and not a woman in the assemblage failed to have some kind of a flower pinned on her left shoulder.

IN THE DRESS SHOPS nowadays they tell me that the apparatus the women used to step into by which the fitter would regulate the skirt length, is practically obsolete. It can no longer be adjusted to reach high enough.

THE commercial spirit of the age has even gone so far now as to face the girls who had dates for the Yale-Harvard game Saturday with the publication in the newspapers of their high expense to their swains.

Forty-two dollars and forty-four cents per head were the horrid figures, and this included no indulgence in extravagance; only the necessities of railroad travel, tickets, luncheon, etc. Did it make the girls unhappy, this sad drain upon the resources of their beaux?

If you think that, you do not know the broad outlook of the girls of today. "More than a million and a quarter dollars poured out like water for our delectation; see how important we are."

And aren't they?

Consider their major part in lending color to the great event, and romance to its atmosphere, not to speak of inspiration to the players, who, the movies have now convinced us, are instigated to victory always, not by the mere detail of knowing how to play the game better than the other side, but by the presence in great throng of one particular girl, whose magnetism—even her voice sometimes—impels some one player to such tour de force that he wins the game single handed.

Suppose a mere matter of expense kept the right girl away, $12.44, the price of defeat in a Yale-Harvard game! See what it means—their presence.

THE sport pages which have thrown this wretched statistical cloud over the glamor of the girls' attendance at football refrain at least from the Adam act. They don't deliberately blame the Eves because they cost so much. And indeed this is one case in which the Eves can clear their abbreviated skirts of any responsibility. It is the men that do the price fixing. It all indicates a sort of irritable masculine restiveness under the feminine yoke. The college men resent the nine yoke. The college men resent the bonds, that is.

"They come high, the girls. But we've got to have 'em."

It has remained for Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt to say the truest thing, and Will Rogers the most sensible thing, yet said about war. Mrs. Catt is going to preside in Washington in December at the second conference on the Cause and Cure of War. That it is not going to be any pacifist session anybody would know who knows Mrs. Catt's record as a fighter.

At the same time this conference is going to be a war to end war: a war on men who make war.

"It's their vanity and sentimentalism," says Mrs. Catt.

Drums and waving flags and personal bravado stuff, that has always been man's role, while woman devoted herself to conservation of home, family and state. "Man is hedged in by the traditional traditional role, afraid to protest against war lest his status be endangered."

And what's more, she boldly exposes man's unrighteous claim to that other romantic picturesque role, protector of home and the women.

"Even when he protects his own women, he imposes cruelty on the women of other nations," says Mrs. Catt. "He has no scruples about killing the bread-winners on the other side and taking the women captive to satisfy his desires."

Now, isn't that just like a woman—worrying about the enemy?

And what are the women going to do about it?

That's where the conference comes in. No "masculine emotionalism," says Mrs. Catt, "but the laying out of plans, to mold the children's views, and so determine a history for the future (if such a phrase be permissible) which will be protected against the false patriotism of the jingoists."

MR. ROGERS in a few brief words punches holes in the recent wisdom of President Coolidge as to conscription of wealth as well as men in future wars.

"Why not postpone having the next war," pertinently inquires this canny humorist, "till the cause for it is so popular that you won't have to conscript either of them?"

THE GIBBS family in England, of which Sir Philip is the best known on this side of the water, and of which A. Hamilton is rapidly gaining a literary foothold over here, does not explain itself on its war record.

And so it comes with a peculiar force that the latest novel by A. Hamilton Gibbs which he calls "The Conch" (the British war-time slang for the conscientious objector).

Thomas Wickens refuses to follow the line of least resistance taken by the millions of his countrymen, accepts with an incurable heart-ache the white feather from his sweetheart, suffers in a detention camp a mental and physical martyrdom far more severe than the hardships the soldiers and to endure (great as they were), because they had the moral support of the rest of the world behind them.

And yet—perhaps the author did not so intend, although I think he did—the conch who would not fight becomes the inevitable hero of the book, and earns from the readers of his story an irresistible sympathy, which they, like war-time England, and even the conch's own family could not have yielded to in the face of prejudice, carefully tended, while war was on.

HOWEVER strong the arguments against the conch in time of war, there can be no logical flight now on a paraphrase of a familiar warning which is a million times more common sense than the original. Why not, in the mood of Mrs. Catt, give the conscientious objector the plain sense of Mr. Rogers, "in time of peace, prepare—not for, but—against war?"

Mrs. McElroy Makes Inspection Hour.

Mrs. J. E. McElroy, worthy grand matron of the Order of Eastern Star, inspected Gate City chapter Friday evening, November 19.

The chapter room was beautifully decorated in fall flowers and the work was well rendered by the officers. Mrs. Estelle Wilson read a beautiful poem dedicated to Mrs. McElroy and Mrs. S. C. Hornbuckle presented a silver bonbon dish as a gift from the chapter.

Saturday evening Mrs. McElroy inspected Inman chapter and was the recipient of a lovely gift from this chapter.

Monday Mrs. McElroy will be the guest of the Winder Woman's club and will be entertained with a reception as the guest of Mrs. S. V. Sanford, at her home.

Mrs. McElroy will inspect Salomon chapter, at Athens, Monday evening, and Wednesday will be guest of honor at a luncheon at Lawrenceville and Wednesday evening will return to Atlanta to inspect Oglethorpe chapter.

Miss Henderson Weds Mr. Chapman At Church Ceremony

One of the prettiest of the fall weddings was that of Miss Emily Henderson and Alsbury Lee Chapman, which took place on Thursday evening, November 18, at 8 o'clock, at the First Methodist church in Decatur, with the pastor, the Rev. G. M. Eakes, officiating.

The church was decorated with autumn leaves as a background. Palms and ferns were massed around the altar. In the foreground yellow and white chrysanthemums in pedestal baskets alternated with white tapers in 7-branched cathedral candelabra.

Miss Agnes Adams, violinist, and Miss Clara Bell Adams, soloist, rendered a beautiful duet. John Rutland sang a solo. Mrs. Edna Love-Jack presided at the pipe organ and played "Lohengrin's" and Mendelssohn's wedding marches.

Eugene O. Lee, Jr., and Dr. Henry Homer Allen, groomsmen, entered together. Miss Weekes wore green velvet and carried Ophelia roses. Miss Leila Belle Hopkins, wearing rose velvet and carrying Ophelia roses, entered with Ormond Lester, groomsmen.

Miss Elizabeth Henderson, junior bridesmaid and sister of the bride, carried a large white chrysanthemum. Mrs. Frank Wilkerson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and carried deep pink roses. All of the bouquets were tied with tulle the color of the dresses. Miss Edna Lee Paine, of Jacksonville, Fla., the maid of honor, was gown in Alice blue velvet and carried yellow roses. Little Miss Frances Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Thomas, was flower girl. She wore pink georgette and carried a basket of roses. Bobby Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dallas, was ring-bearer. He was dressed in a white satin suit and carried the ring in a large white chrysanthemum.

The lovely bride entered with her father, George Augustus Henderson, who gave her in marriage. Her bridal robe was of white velvet, draped. A court train of georgette edged with white velvet and crepe at the shoulders. Her filmy tulle veil was adjusted with orange blossoms. She carried orchids and lilies of the valley. The bride was met at the altar by the groom, Alsbury Lee Chapman, and his best man, P. A. Chapman, a brother.

Mrs. Gretta Henderson, the bride's mother, wore black velvet and lace, with a corsage of Parma violets.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman left immediately after the ceremony on a bridal trip.

Seminary To Make Thanksgiving Offerings.

The Thanksgiving offering of the Washington seminary, as a school, goes to the needy work guild, of which organization it has long been a director. In addition to this gift, the various classes do something for the charity in which they are particularly interested.

Many of the inmates of the Old Ladies' home are well known to members of the senior class. For several years, in addition to substantial gifts, they have furnished programs which the old ladies have seemed to enjoy.

The juniors are busy putting the last touches to a circus, the proceeds of which will go to the work of the Grady hospital. They expect to provide in the near future sleeping garments for these little ones.

The freshmen are accounted the wealthiest class in school. They have put money each year in the bank.

For four years they have added much pleasure to Evelyn Hancock, a very lame little girl. This Thanksgiving they will add to her comfort by the gift of a nice warm sweater and a real Thanksgiving dinner.

They have adopted for the next four years the children at the Home for the incurables and expect to do many things for their comfort and happiness.

The lower grades always have some family with children for whom they can do something at intervals during the year.

The seventh and eighth grades are each planning to carry generous baskets to such families. The seventh grade will continue to aid one in which they were interested last year. The following children were heard in a Friday morning recital: May Gray, Anne Gray, Martha Burnett, Ellen Rhodes, Elizabeth Whitteu, Elizabeth Clay and Frances Maldeu.

Mrs. Lane To Be Honored At Party by Mrs. Hord.

Mrs. O. P. Lane, of Philadelphia, vice president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, who is the distinguished guest of her sister, Mrs. B. M. McDonald, at her home on Piedmont avenue, will be honor guest at the party given this afternoon by Mrs. Abner Hord to the members of the Kentucky Club of Atlanta, of which Mrs. Lane is a member.

Public Welfare Program Marks Atlanta Woman's Club Meeting

The public welfare department of the Atlanta Woman's club sponsored the program of Monday afternoon's meeting.

Speaking of the public welfare department of the club, the president said: "Through its divisions this department will seek to ascertain the best standards available for public welfare work and will try to interpret them in club study and action in the community. Especial effort will be made to show the intimate relations between every division—child welfare, public health, problems of delinquency, problems of industry, Indian welfare and narcotics."

Smith introduced Mrs. George Ripley, Jr., chairman of public welfare program for the afternoon, who introduced her division chairman, Mrs. Charles Goodman, of the child welfare department, who read a letter from Dr. Willis A. Sutton thanking the club for the interest shown at Christmas for the children in the schools; Dr. Elizabeth Branch, of the public health department; Mrs. S. D. T. Quinby and Mrs. Houston Johnson, who deal with problems of delinquency; Mrs. T. J. Ripley, of Indian welfare work; Mrs. George Jewett, of problems of industry, and Mrs. R. C. Jessup, of the narcotics department.

Judge Watkins speaks. Judge Garland Watkins, of the juvenile court, was introduced by Mrs. Ripley. He told of the increasing number of juvenile delinquents that came before his court, and urged the women of the club to use all their God-given powers for a solution of this vital problem. He thanked the women for the work already accomplished and said that he felt sure of their future cooperation. The president announced that this day, November 22, was an anniversary of note, being the first day of St. Cecilia and also the birthday of Mrs. Edward A. MacDowell, wife of America's greatest composer. Mrs. MacDowell will give a concert at the club March 14 at 8:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the music committee. The secretary announced that there would be no classes on Thursday and no tea on

WOMAN'S SPHERE HER HOME, WOMAN GOVERNOR HOLDS

Philadelphia, November 22.—(AP)—Home and motherhood remain women's sphere of preeminence, but their influence in politics, business and the professions has been a force of purification, Governor Nellie Taylor Ross, of Wyoming, told an audience here today.

Governor Ross, one of the first two women to be elected as chief executive of a commonwealth in the United States, participated in the dedication of a new supplemental building to be occupied by the Gimbel Brother department store. The building was dedicated to American women.

FIRE NOT TO HINDER HUMANITY SOCIETY

Work of the Atlanta Humane society will not be hindered by the fire which badly damaged the building Sunday, it was announced Monday by officials of the society, and an office will be open at 1029 Marietta street until the building is repaired. The office was donated by the Atlantic Ice and Coal company and Mrs. Katherine Wetters, secretary, will be in charge.

The outdoor kennels of the society were not damaged by the fire and no sick or wounded animals were injured by the blaze. The Humane society is a branch of the Community Chest and cares for sick and injured animals and also investigates cases of cruelty to animals and children. The telephone number, Hemlock 3347, will not be changed, it was announced.

WOMEN TAKE THEOLOGY COURSES AT EMORY

Emory University, Ga., November 22.—(Special)—Emory's theological enrollment includes students from five foreign countries: Brazil, Korea, Cuba, China and Japan. There is also among the theological students 20 married men. There are 17 students licensed to preach and they are frequently requested to fill pulpits from time to time. There are also several women who are taking special courses in the seminary.

Decatur Fine Arts Club To Meet.

On Friday afternoon, November 26, at 3 o'clock the Decatur Fine Arts Club will meet at the home of Mrs. H. G. Hastings, 308 Clairmont Ave., Decatur. In keeping with the season, the program will be colonial, and the atmosphere of the early Thanksgiving will be reproduced. The committee in charge for the afternoon include: Mrs. H. G. Hastings, under whose chairmanship the program will be conducted; Mrs. W. S. Anale, Mrs. Lester A. Brown, Mrs. Robert Christian, Mrs. Laurence Everhart, Mrs. Paul Green, Mrs. Lewis Johnson, Mrs. John Ridley, Mrs. Milton Scott and Mrs. Ed Terrell.

Friday of this week on account of Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Price-Smith presided at the meeting and the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. E. V. Carter, recording secretary. Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, membership chairman, reported nine new members. Mrs. John M. Cooper, chairman of the musical program for the afternoon, presented Solon Drukenmiller, a talented artist, who sang very beautifully. "When We Were Sweethearts." Both words and music of this song were written by Mrs. Sweet Emerson, a former Agnes Scott student, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woods White. As an encore Mr. Drukenmiller sang "Little Feller," words by Frank L. Stanton and music by E. A. Kneisler, director of the Biltmore orchestra.

Mrs. Drukenmiller was accompanied by Mrs. Charles Chalmers, a capable and charming pianist, whose music is always appreciated. The Oglethorpe University orchestra, under the leadership of Captain Lee, rendered several attractive numbers.

Tea Served.

Tea was served by Mrs. T. G. Delph and the members of the house committee. Mrs. George Ripley, Jr., Mrs. John R. Hornady, Mrs. Irving Thomas, Mrs. George S. Ober, Jr., Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, Mrs. M. L. Throver, Mrs. A. H. Hazard and Mrs. J. A. Childs. Everyone present was cordially invited to remain for tea and to inspect the bazaar in the banquet hall.

Rome Plans for Drive For Community Chest; Leaders Are Selected

Constitution Bureau. Rome, Ga., November 22.—(Special)—With a budget of $18,800 as a goal, Aubrey Matthews, president of the Rotary club, who is chairman of the 1926 community chest drive, has completed his organization down to team captains. The dates of the drive are December 7-9. The members of the teams will be announced this week.

H. P. Melickham and E. P. Harvey have been selected as vice chairmen. The budget this year is the same as it was last year, but is distributed a little differently. The figures will be divided as follows:

Salvation Army $6,000; Y. M. C. A. $4,000; Public Health Nurse association $2,000; Maple Street Community house $2,500; American Red Cross $400; children's clinic $100; hospital bed $750; Myrtle Park playground $300; contingent $2,000; expenses $750; total $18,800.

Thanksgiving Plans.

Rome, Ga., November 22.—(Special)—Thanksgiving will be generally observed in Rome, Union Thanksgiving services will be held at the First Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Woolsey E. Couch, new pastor of the First Christian church, will conduct the services. Final football games of the season will be played by Rome High school and Darlington, during the morning and afternoon. Rome High will play Battle Ground academy, of Franklin, Tenn., Thursday morning, and Darlington clashes with Alabama Military institute, of Anniston, Ala., Thursday afternoon.

Many Romans will go to Atlanta to see Tech and Auburn play, while others will see the Georgia-Alabama classic in Birmingham. A recommendation that all retailers in Rome close all day Thanksgiving was adopted at the last meeting of the wholesale and retail group of the chamber of commerce.

Auditorium Built.

Rome, Ga., November 22.—(Special)—Work on the construction of an auditorium to seat 300 people began today at Maple Street Community house. The auditorium, which will cost approximately $2,000, will be constructed as an annex to the community house and will be used by the center for lectures, motion pictures, the presentation of plays and community meetings.

It will be equipped with stage, orchestra, pit and dressing rooms.

Mrs. Brewster Seeks $200,000 From Husband

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, November 22.—A $200,000 damage suit and a threat of actual prosecution for his Mexican divorce and marriage to the beautiful Corliss Palmer, former Macon, Ga., cigar-counter girl, is the contribution of Mrs. Eleanor V. V. Brewster today to the already complicated life of Eugene V. Brewster, magazine publisher.

The suit, according to Charles H. Tuttle, attorney for Mrs. Brewster, is a test case to determine "whether any American wife is at the mercy of a husband willing to seek the services of the Mexican government."

Summons and complaint were filed today in the county clerk's office here. At the same time a $50,000 attachment, granted by Supreme Court Justice Delehanty, was served upon Miss Elizabeth N. Heilmann, secretary of the Brewster publications, Inc. This ties up Brewster's property here until the suit is tried.

In her complaint, Mrs. Brewster, now living at Great Neck, L. I., charges that Brewster and Corliss Palmer went to Mexico as the result of a conspiracy to injure her marital rights, to represent her as a divorced woman and to represent Corliss as Brewster's wife. The Mexican divorce which Brewster obtained from his wife is attacked as illegal.

Though the publisher is honeymooning in California, where Corliss is in the movies, he may be extradited and brought back to this state, Tuttle pointed out.

Only last Wednesday Supreme Court Justice Levy signed an order requiring Brewster to account for assets he is said to have diverted from the Brewster publications. A few days earlier, under the $200,000 judgment which Mrs. Brewster obtained against the Georgia beauty for alienation of her husband's affections, furs, and other valuables of Corliss here were seized and sold to satisfy the wife's claims.

WEDDING LICENSE PRICES ARE CUT FOR CHRISTMAS

Jackson, Miss., November 22.—(AP) The two-ninety-eight slogan of bargain counter fame has invaded the local matrimonial field.

As a special reason for "doing your Christmas shopping early," Circuit Clerk E. D. Fondren today announced a price of $2.98 on all marriage licenses until December 25, a reduction of two cents. Not to be outdone in the matter, Justices of the Peace Frantz, Brown and Flowers announced that the price of performing wedding ceremonies has been reduced from $1 to 96 cents for that period.

"The Good Book says it is not good for man to be alone," Mr. Fondren said. He also believes that this applies to women.

FIFTH WARD LEAGUE TO GET "VOTE" PRIZE

Members of the League of Women Voters of the fifth ward will be presented a silver vase and $200 in cash by the state organization in the city council chamber, December 1, it was announced Monday.

The awards go as a prize to the fifth ward organization for winning the state contest in the last "get-out-the-vote" campaign in the primary of September 22. The money will be used for civic improvements.

Philibosian Offers Great Variety and Lower Prices To the Christmas Shopper

Tremendous Stock Makes
Selection of Appropriate
Gifts Easy; Cash Policy
Means Big Saving.

Christmas is only a few weeks off, and once again we are confronted with the problem of what to give our loved ones.

The firm of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., the South's most beautiful furniture, rug and drapery store, offers a wonderful opportunity to all prospective buyers of Christmas presents, not only to select a suitable gift for any or every member of the family, but an opportunity to save considerable money on such purchases.

Due to the fact that Stephen Philibosian, Inc., sells strictly for cash, their prices are very noticeably lower and the quality of the merchandise at this store will convince the most skeptical upon sight.

Regardless of how much money one expects to put into a Christmas present, there is something at the store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., that will appeal. There are beautiful yet inexpensive smoking stands, boudoir lamps, occasional tables, bric-a-brac stands, old chairs, wall desks, sewing tables, and novelty pieces of many kinds; rugs, covering almost every conceivable variety and price; bedroom and dining room suites, ranging from very effective inexpensive suites to the magnificent hand-carved suites of finest materials.

It is a treat to go through this great store and see the tremendous stock on display. The problem of selecting a suitable gift for the coming season will be easily solved by such a visit.

It is absolutely impossible to go through this store and not recognize a gift that would be appropriate for any friend or relative.

And the other big inducement to visit this store, besides the variety of distinctive merchandise, is the saving that can be effected on any article bought. Just examine the merchandise and compare its price with prices on similar merchandise at any other store in the South, and you will see the difference.

It is a real pleasure to shop at Philibosian's. The unusual values of forced make buying there a matter of economy—and the courteous, well-trained sales force makes buying there a real pleasure.

There is not a member of the sales force of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., who has had many years' experience and who is especially qualified in his line to render exceptional service to their customers.

Make up your mind to do your Christmas shopping early at Philibosian's. Go out there today and see for yourself the many appropriate gifts, the amazing low prices and the extraordinarily good service the Philibosian sales organization offers the public.

One visit will convince you that every claim this firm makes about quality merchandise and lower prices, because of their cash policy, is absolutely true.—(adv.)

Fashions Sketched by Kay

Today I am showing you one of the new mandarin frocks, a very smart model I have sketched from Muse's Henry Grady Shop. It is developed in black satin canton, that very fashionable material, and owes its chic to its unusually graceful lines, and to the two large pockets stitched in gold. The new neckline favored by Paris, and the cuffs sponsor shirring, and bands of the satin side of the material tie in most interesting fashion.

E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs. Goldie Shoup of May View, Ill.

She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound.

Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their household easily, happy homes are the result.

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

Friendship Class Officers Hold First Meeting.

The new officers of the friendship class of the First Baptist church Sunday school held their first meeting Friday night, November 19, at the home of Miss Mary Power, president, 240 West Peachtree street. Various duties of each officer were discussed and plans for December's work were outlined. Those present were: Miss Camille Venzey, teacher; Miss Mary Power, president; Miss May Wiley, first vice president; Miss Eva Mullins, third vice president; Mrs. Wilbur Scarborough, secretary; Miss Helen Fitzgerald, assistant secretary; Miss Ethel Gerry, treasurer; Miss Lucille Mullins, librarian; Mrs. C. Alvin Stallings, reporter. Mrs. Inez Foote, second vice president, was unable to attend.

Black Butterflies

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

INSTALLMENT LVI.
A BAD DREAM.

David uttered a sound that was meant to be the sardonic laugh of a man tricked by life. But it wasn't. It was merely the choked sob of a frightened boy, equally afraid, in that moment, of life and of love and of himself.

When Dorinda reached the studio the next afternoon Warren told her that she could see Kitty for a few minutes. "It's pretty near the end, but she's fairly comfortable now. Don't let her talk much."

He motioned to the day nurse and both went to a dim front window of the loft, where, in low tones, they discussed the patient's chart. Jim, crouching on the floor at the foot of the bed with his head buried in his arms, they ignored as if he had not been there. He did not move as Dorinda approached, and she, too, forgot him as she bent over Kitty—if this wraith in the bed could be Kitty! For a moment her mind rejected the knowledge that it was. But the voice, though merely a husky whisper, was Kitty's throat contralto.

"O, Dorinda, you're here. I'm so glad!"

"Kitty, Kitty! Why didn't you let me know? I shall never get over that!"

Tears were pouring down Dorinda's cheeks, though she had earnestly assured Warren that she would be quite calm.

"I wanted to, really—but I couldn't. I did so hope to keep everything quiet. Silly, wasn't it?"

Kitty spoke almost drowsily, but she held Dorinda's hand in a grasp

"Don't talk," she said drowsily.

that had no weakness in it. "I can't talk just yet," she went on in the same drowsy tones. "Can't think quite straight. Things get away from me. Sit close and let me hold your hand. Then perhaps I'll remember what I want to say. . . . As her friend drew a rickety chair to the bedside and obeyed, Kitty's grasp tightened.

"You—don't—think every one will—laugh—at—us, do—you, Dorry?" she asked in a voice so suddenly clear that it was plain she had put all her ebbing strength into it.

"No, Kitty, no, no!" Dorinda said, and pressed the clinging hand in both her own.

"I'm glad," Kitty sighed, and added in her husky whisper, "Just the same, it was a terrible mistake the way we did it. I've made blunders all my life, but this was my last and biggest one."

At the foot of the bed Jim dug his head in the bedclothing as if he could bear no more, and Kitty, perhaps feeling the movement, looked at him with a sudden light in her glazing eyes.

"It wasn't Jim's fault," she continued in the throaty voice that was the only recognizable thing about her. "No one must ever blame Jim. He wanted—He would have done anything. He begged me—But you know how I've been, always—stubborn, horribly. I wouldn't listen. I couldn't. I was afraid every one would laugh at us if we were found out. We've preached so much, jeered so much at others. But it wasn't merely the fear of ridicule. My feeling went deeper than that. We had betrayed our convictions, Jim and I, and that's the one unpardonable sin," said poor Kitty. "Right or wrong, one's got to live up to what one believes. We didn't—we didn't—"

"But, Kitty darling, you did!"

For the first time her life Dorinda Maxwell was reaching toward a higher power, begging that power to give her the right words. "Until the test came you lived up to what you thought were your convictions. When the test came, when you fell in love, you realized what your convictions really were, and you lived up to them. You married. It's all so clear. Don't you see?"

"Perhaps—I don't know—I hope so—I'm awfully confused. Anyway, I've got to pay the piper. I've got to leave Jim—and my music—and this beautiful world—"

"You must not give up like that! The doctors haven't—"

"Don't talk," she said drowsily. "I want to think—I must try to remember what I wanted to say—"

There was a long silence. Kitty lay with closed eyes, and the visitor, forcing herself at last to be as calm as she had promised to be, looked at the unfamiliar mask on the pillow. It was unbelievable that one could change so much in so short a time. Again she had the sensation, so familiar of late, of living through a bad dream. She looked around the loft, its atmosphere transformed to something like comfort today by her efforts and those of the doctor and nurses. The wild confusion and clutter she had observed during the moment's visit of the night before had given place to order. There was a fire in the Franklin stove. The bed was immaculate. The place held a suggestion of drugs and sickness, but the January air entering through the windows, open at the top, was cool and fresh. As if the patient followed the other's thoughts, she spoke suddenly.

"I haven't thanked you for all you're doing."

"Don't, Kitty!"

"You've always been a trump," Kitty muttered, "but I suppose there's a big chance that you'll make a mess of your life like the rest of us. And yet—I ought not to complain. I've been awfully happy—till now. Do you hear that, darling?" Her voice had risen as if again she must be sure of making herself heard. "Ever since I've known Jim and loved him I've been perfectly happy. Do you hear, Jim?"

"Yes, dear," Bryant dragged himself along the floor till he was within touch of the groping hand Kitty had released from Dorinda's.

"I want you to remember that," Kitty said, still drowsily. "I want you to remember that—always. Our ideas were wrong, so we wasted our lives. I suppose that's why we have to pay. But we were happy just the same. I was always happy till the Black Butterflies came. Jim!"

—her voice rose in sudden panic—"don't let them come, will you?"

"My darling, don't begin that again. It's all nonsense and we've told you so." Jim spoke quickly, almost sternly. He had straightened, had obviously pulled himself together as if to meet a crisis. He turned to Dorinda and spoke with something of his natural voice and manner.

"There was a paper shade on the lamp on Kitty's piano," he said, speaking very distinctly, "int he form of a black butterfly. And there were a lot of other black paper butterflies that Kitty had hung around the studio as decorations. You remember them, don't you?"

"Perfectly," Dorinda said quickly, realizing that for some reason the assurance was important.

"Well, when Kitty was first taken sick it was at night," Bryant went on in the same clear tones. "The lights have always made reflections of the butterfly decorations here in the studio, and they always threw a big black shadow on the lamp shade butterfly on this opposite wall, right here, facing Kitty. She used to look for that shadow and like it. She knows all this as well as I do. We have talked about it again and again—haven't we, Kitty?"

"Yes," Kitty said, obediently. "Yes, Jim." Her voice shook. "But I can't really be sure of it unless you tell me." She turned her dimming eyes to Dorinda. "That's why Jim has to stay here every minute, so he can tell me often. I get—so—terribly—frightened!" Again her voice rose, but Dorinda saw that Warren and the day nurse, though they had turned their heads to watch their patient, did not move. Evidently it was Bryant's scene, and now, distraught though he was from grief, exhaustion, and lack of sleep, he was rising to it gallantly.

"You wouldn't believe Kitty was such a foolish girl," he went on, almost buoyantly, "but that first night, owing to her fever, she actually got it into her head that those black butterflies were live things, flying around here and bothering her."

SUTTON FELICITATED ON 47TH BIRTHDAY

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta school, Monday was the recipient of many felicitations on his 47th birthday. Chief among these were a fountain pen set, a leather-bound loose-leaf book and a leather brief case, presented by students and faculty of the William A. Bass Junior High school.

A special committee waited on Mr. Sutton Monday in his offices at the Walker Street school and made the presentation. His birthday was November 19, but the news leaked out Saturday and the surprise party was staged Monday.

Bass school is said to be the largest public grammar school in the southeast, having a student body composed of 1,900. Reading of a poem, written by Miss Margaret Darrington, of the seventh grade who also was one of the committee, was a feature of the party.

Others who formed the committee were Madge Stewart, president of the student body, chairman; W. B. Brady, representing the eighth grade and scholarship; Mildred Flurry, of the seventh grade, and Henry Bauer, editor of "Ariel," the school publication. Faculty members present were Principal J. H. Smith and Miss Dorcas Graham, of the department of mathematics.

WANT LOCAL DANCERS AT KEITH'S THEATER

Atlanta girls who have stage aspirations will have a chance to show their stuff on Keith's Georgia theater stage the week of November 29, when the Lane-Travers Revue plays a week's engagement there. They can use several local girls for their engagement and those who have dancing ability and are eager to show it are requested to call at the stage door of the Georgia theater next Wednesday, where the representative of the Lane-Travers Revue will interview them. Girls who can Charleston and do the Black Bottom are especially desired.

C. C. McGEHEE DIES MONDAY AT HOME

Funeral services for Charles Christopher McGehee, 56, of 255 East Fifteenth street, N. E., who died early Monday morning, will be held at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning from the Wesley Memorial church.

Proceeds will be used to augment a fund which the association is employing in efforts to rid the streets of Atlanta of "blind beggars." In its announcement of the recital, the association points out that mendicancy is "one of the objectionable problems of Atlanta today," and the organization has gone on record as being bitterly opposed to the practice and pledging its full support to any efforts to remedy the situation. Tickets to the concert went on sale Monday morning at Phillips & Crew Piano company, Peachtree and Ellis streets.

The three artists are widely known as accomplished musicians, and this fact added to the knowledge of what the association intends to do with the proceeds leads officials to believe that the concert will draw a capacity crowd.

BUILDING AND LOAN MOVE IS INDORSED

Cooperation of the Forward Atlanta advertising commission, the chamber of commerce, and other civic organizations with the Georgia League of Building and Loan Associations in its state-wide campaign to double building and loan investments in Georgia, was pledged Monday by Milton W. Bell, cashier of the federal reserve bank, a member of the Forward Atlanta commission, and vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

"There is no doubt that we will bring thousands of people into Georgia who must be properly housed and I know of no safer or better way to do this than through building and loan associations," Mr. Bell said.

"By making people home-owners we make them better citizens, with the welfare of the community at heart. Anyone who has invested in a business or community will have the interest of that business or community at heart, and will not become radical. It is on this theory that many corporations are distributing stock among their employees."

"The movement to increase building and loan investments is one that deserves the cooperation of all civic bodies," Mr. Bell concluded.

At least five members of the Forward Atlanta advertising commission will be enlisted in the campaign organization to double present building and loan investments in Georgia. Ivan Allen, chairman of the commission, announced after a joint conference with the executive committee of the league Monday. They will serve in capacities to be assigned by J. W. Vaughan, chairman of the league committee, and George W. West, president.

Mr. Allen accepted the chairmanship of the committee on civic cooperation to arrange support of civic and other public welfare bodies in the league's state-wide drive.

WESLEY MEMORIAL CHURCH AS BENEFIT OF BLIND

Wesley Memorial church will be the scene of a double piano recital next Tuesday night for the benefit of the Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind. Hugh Hodgson and Rosita Renard, assisted by Kate R. Hodgson, will give the recital, arrangements for which are being made by Paul Donohoo, Fulton county coroner, president of the association.

Proceeds will be used to augment a fund which the association is employing in efforts to rid the streets of Atlanta of "blind beggars." In its announcement of the recital, the association points out that mendicancy is "one of the objectionable problems of Atlanta today," and the organization has gone on record as being bitterly opposed to the practice and pledging its full support to any efforts to remedy the situation. Tickets to the concert went on sale Monday morning at Phillips & Crew Piano company, Peachtree and Ellis streets.

The three artists are widely known as accomplished musicians, and this fact added to the knowledge of what the association intends to do with the proceeds leads officials to believe that the concert will draw a capacity crowd.

BUILDING AND LOAN MOVE IS INDORSED

Cooperation of the Forward Atlanta advertising commission, the chamber of commerce, and other civic organizations with the Georgia League of Building and Loan Associations in its state-wide campaign to double building and loan investments in Georgia, was pledged Monday by Milton W. Bell, cashier of the federal reserve bank, a member of the Forward Atlanta commission, and vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

"There is no doubt that we will bring thousands of people into Georgia who must be properly housed and I know of no safer or better way to do this than through building and loan associations," Mr. Bell said.

"By making people home-owners we make them better citizens, with the welfare of the community at heart. Anyone who has invested in a business or community will have the interest of that business or community at heart, and will not become radical. It is on this theory that many corporations are distributing stock among their employees."

"The movement to increase building and loan investments is one that deserves the cooperation of all civic bodies," Mr. Bell concluded.

At least five members of the Forward Atlanta advertising commission will be enlisted in the campaign organization to double present building and loan investments in Georgia. Ivan Allen, chairman of the commission, announced after a joint conference with the executive committee of the league Monday. They will serve in capacities to be assigned by J. W. Vaughan, chairman of the league committee, and George W. West, president.

THE PROBLEM: What is the sum total of the figures forming the elephant? Simply add them up to get the solution.

There are no marks, lines or characters in the elephant except figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each standing alone. There are no "ones" or "ciphers." There are no groups of figures such as "23" or "42." The heads of the "6's" are distinctly curved, while the tails of the "9's" are straight, or practically so. There is no trick or illusion in any description in the chart.

General Rules of The Contest

1. All bona-fide residents of Georgia and adjoining states, meaning Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, and middle Tennessee, may take part in this contest, except employees of The Atlanta Constitution, members of their families, and those who have won first and second awards in similar contest conducted by The Constitution.

2. Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire, provided payment of one of the four amounts designated in the award list shall accompany each solution, but no contestant will be permitted to win more than one award. Once registered a solution cannot be changed.

3. The Atlanta Constitution offers these awards for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together, or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of any number of persons to submit a solution of the puzzle. Only one award will be paid to any person.

4. The Atlanta Constitution is to decide any questions which may arise and are not covered by the published rules, and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions and accept them as final and conclusive.

5. All solutions must be mailed or delivered to the Atlanta Constitution office on or before 3 o'clock Saturday, November 27, 1926. Solutions sent by mail bearing postmark of that date will be accepted. If no covering letter is enclosed with the solution, the Atlanta Constitution will assume that the solution is for the prize of $2,000.

6. The Atlanta Constitution is to decide any questions which may arise and are not covered by the published rules, and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions and accept them as final and conclusive.

7. All solutions must be mailed or delivered to the Atlanta Constitution office on or before 3 o'clock Saturday, November 27, 1926. The Day in Finance

By R. L. BARNUM

New York, November 22.—Opening higher the stock market displayed a strong undertone today with Baldwin, Steel common, General Motors, American Sugar, American Woolen, Stewart Warner, Mack Trucks and many specialties showing substantial gains over Saturday's closing. Steel common has been advancing and declining for months without developing any definite trend; hence more attention was paid today to the advances in American Woolen, American Sugar, Stewart Warner, Mack Trucks and many specialties which were being closely watched to see if a new price trend was developing. The last definite price trend was downward.

Trading in Corn Products was heavier than usual. Sources close to the management pointed out that corn, the company's raw material, was cheap, with the demand for finished product large. A very favorable 1926 annual report is expected.

Cotton Oil, Then Recovered.
Although today's final government cotton report showed 18,399,000 bales against 17,918,000 two weeks ago, at least 200,000 bales more than the largest trade estimate, the cotton market did not show any particular excitement. After selling off some 20 points there was a recovery. From now until the middle of March the market will publish gaining reports to check up its report.

Today's figures of 18,399,000 bales compared with the 17,918,000 bales of September 1. In view of the decline in price that has since taken place in the cotton market, the trade is confident that if this year's crop turns out more than 18,000,000 bales, not more than 18,000,000 bales will

Strong Undertone Shown in Market With Many Specialties Showing Substantial Gain.

At one time Woolworth carried good will on the assets side of its balance sheet at $50,000,000. This item has been written down to $1 through the use of large current earnings.

Baldwin Corner Denied.
Universal Pipe preferred continued its upward movement. This stock is callable at $110. It is possible that the management is buying this stock in the open market in anticipation of following the example of Standard Oil of New Jersey. Baldwin's rapid advance to a price level of some 60 points above the year's low of $2 7/8 has caused rumors of a corner in the stock. There is no corner in Baldwin and there is not going to be a stock.

As soon as the floating supply of a stock is so small that it is impossible to have an active market on both sides the stock exchange steps in and causes rumors of a corner in the stock. There is no corner in Baldwin and there is not going to be a stock.

Safety Zones For Dollars

Preferred stock financing, in some instances, may be highly desirable, or ill-advised, unwarranted, and based on nothing more tangible than hopes or promises. Because he has little or no recourse in case dividends are not earned or paid, the investor should exercise extreme care in making his preferred stock selections and should rigidly confine himself to the higher grade issues. To determine the real security behind a preferred stock offering, the investor will find the following tests helpful:

1. What is the total amount of obligations prior to this issue and would there be adequate security behind this preferred stock after all the prior debts are paid off?

2. Has this company a long dividend-paying record, and are present dividends being paid out of actual earnings or of reserve funds?

3. What is the nature of the corporation over a period of years been more than equal to the dividend requirements of the preferred stock, after interest on bonded debt and current debts have been subtracted?

4. What is the amount and rating of the common stock junior to this preferred issue? Is it sufficient to assume the shocks of the business?

5. Is this issue redeemable and, if so, at what price?

6. What provisions have been made to safeguard this issue, such as priority as to assets, cumulative provisions and provisional voting rights? Does ownership of this stock give the holder a particularly unsatisfactory record?

7. What is the position of this company in its field? Is its activity essential and likely to be permanent? Although preferred stocks of companies with long records of successful operation and unquestioned financial strength are very desirable investments, this type of investment is not on a parity with bonds as a class. In some instances these shares have had a particularly unsatisfactory record.

8. But because there have been poor preferred stocks in no reason to believe that good ones cannot be found. If an investor will seek out and confine his preferred stock investments to those companies which give fair promise of maintaining their financial strength in the future at a satisfactory profit, he can be fairly certain that his preferred shares will pay dividends regularly.
